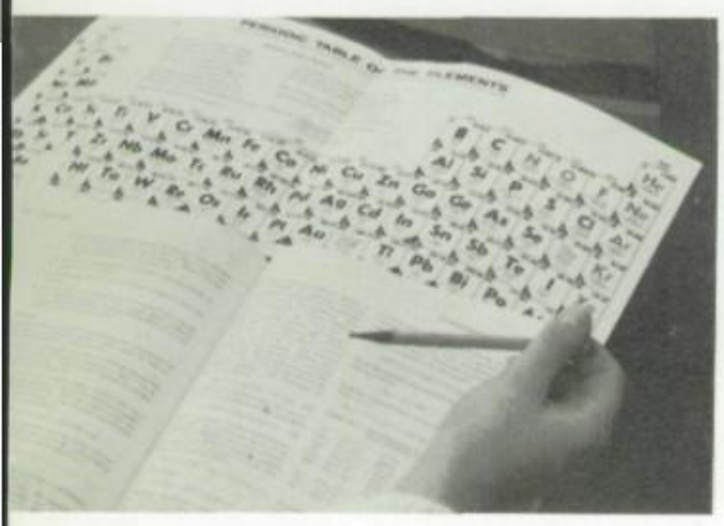
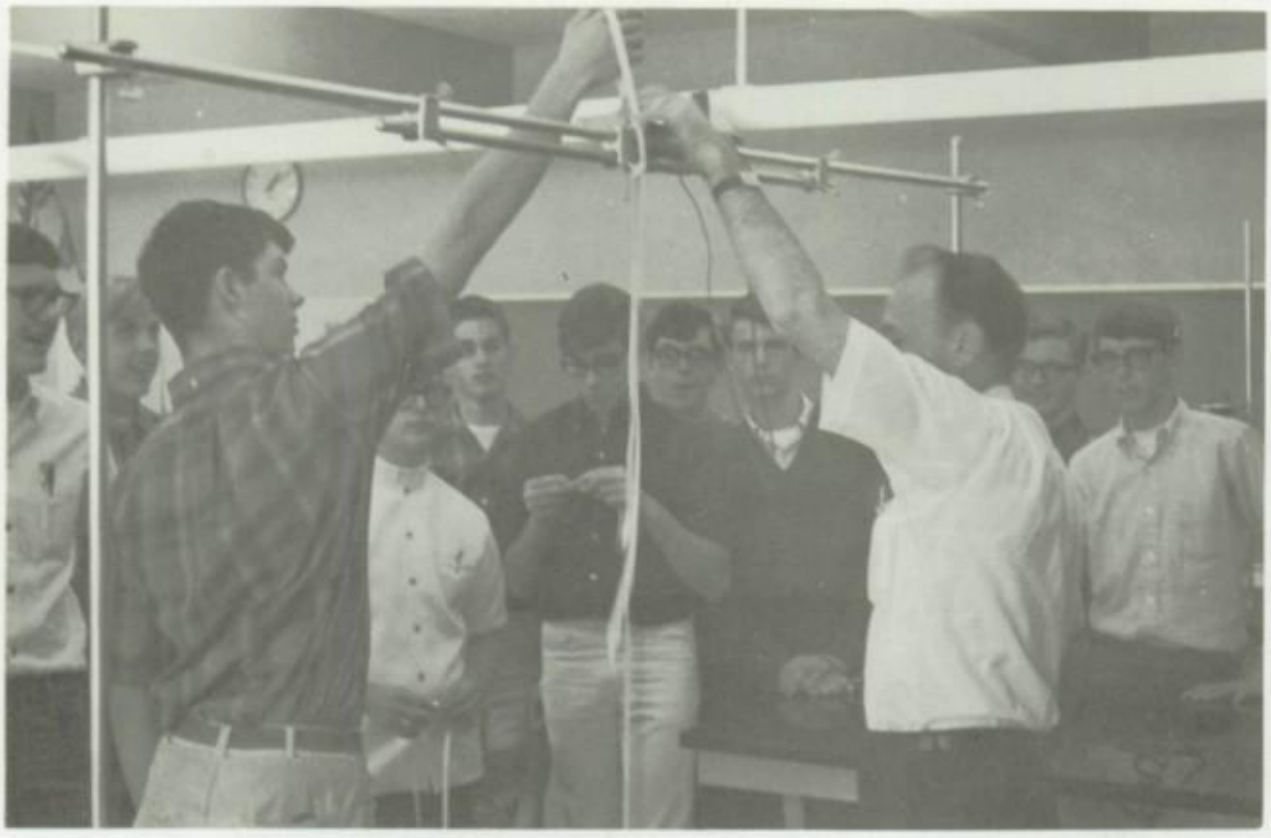
... the sacrifice and solitude that learning often requires





AMAS

... the satisfaction that one receives by being able to help and work with others in class, student council, and club activities.

...musicals, concerts, plays, ball games, and assemblies are all products of a great deal of labor and planning.

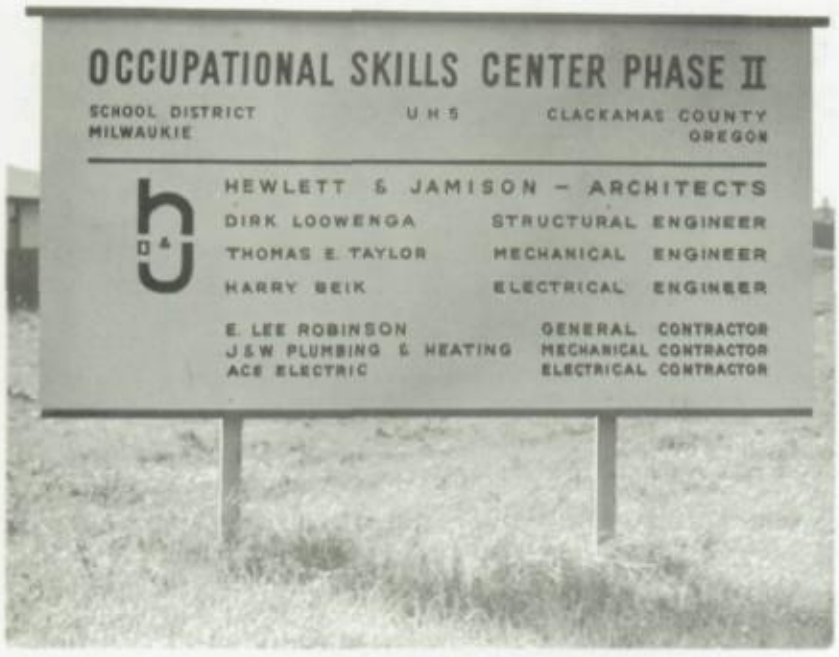
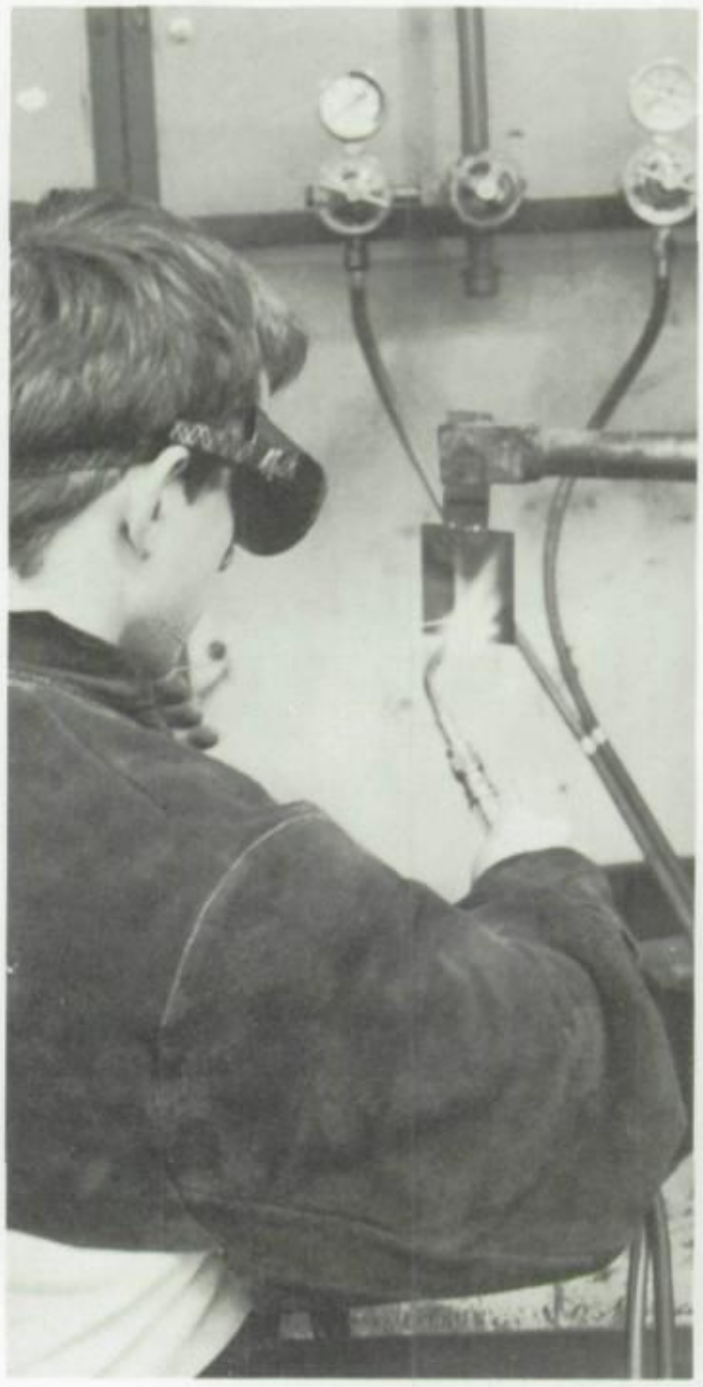
They aptly portray the ability of dedicated students to work and learn together.

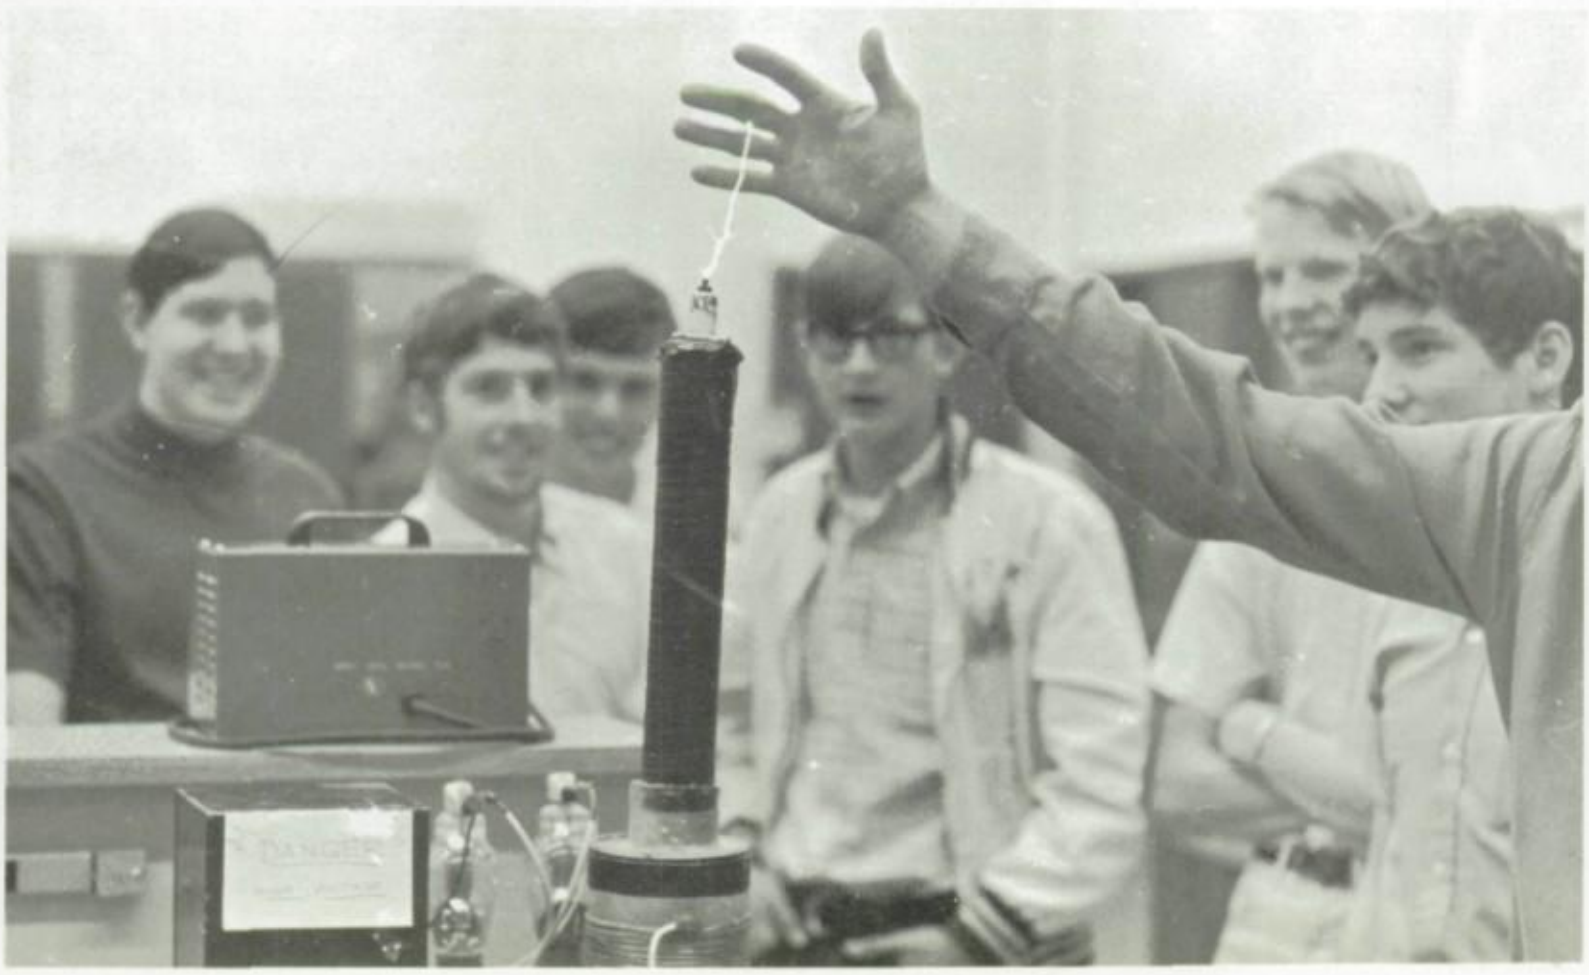
...included in education must be a time for enjoyment.

It is then that rules are relaxed, and the student demonstrates his creativity and imagination in activities that he enjoys.



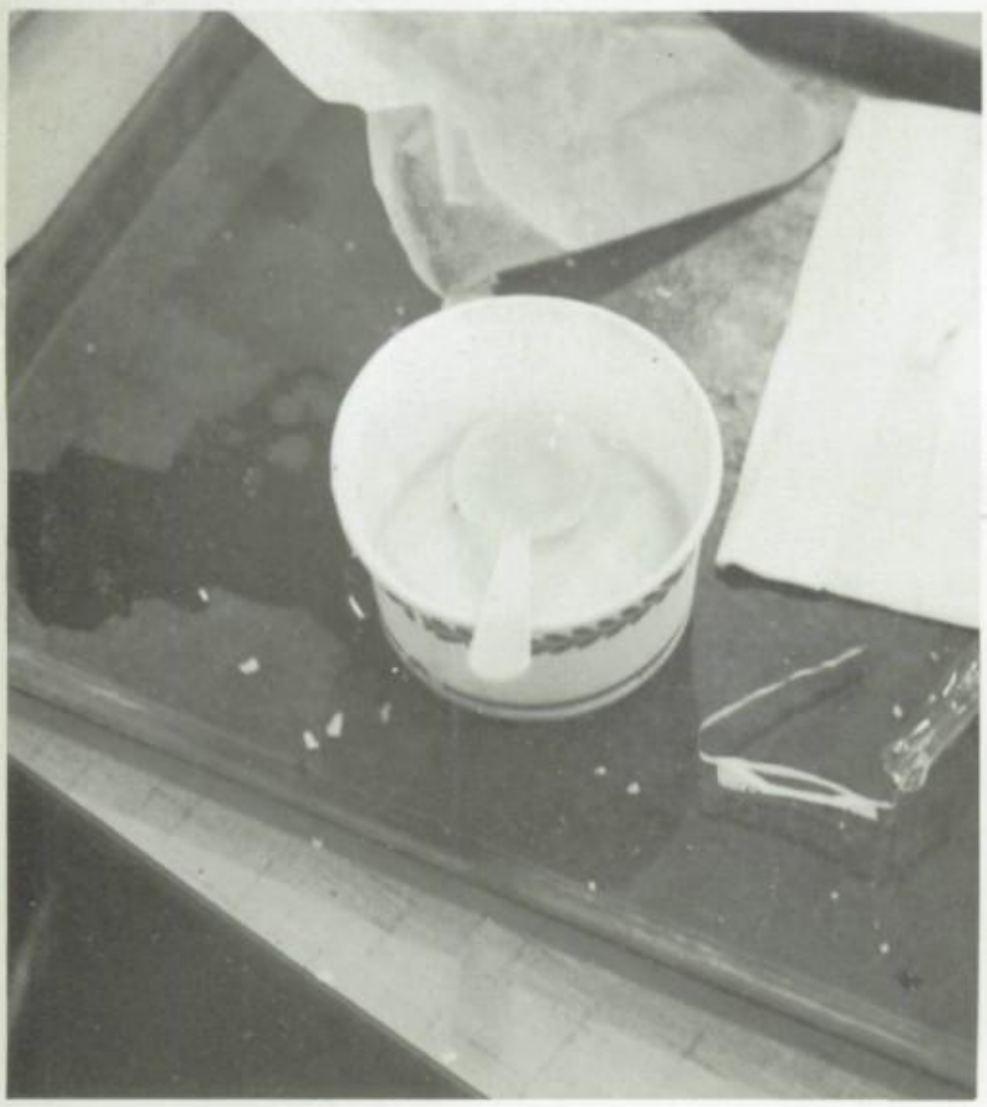
...knowledge is not always something intangible. At the Skill Center students work and build for the future in a practical way.



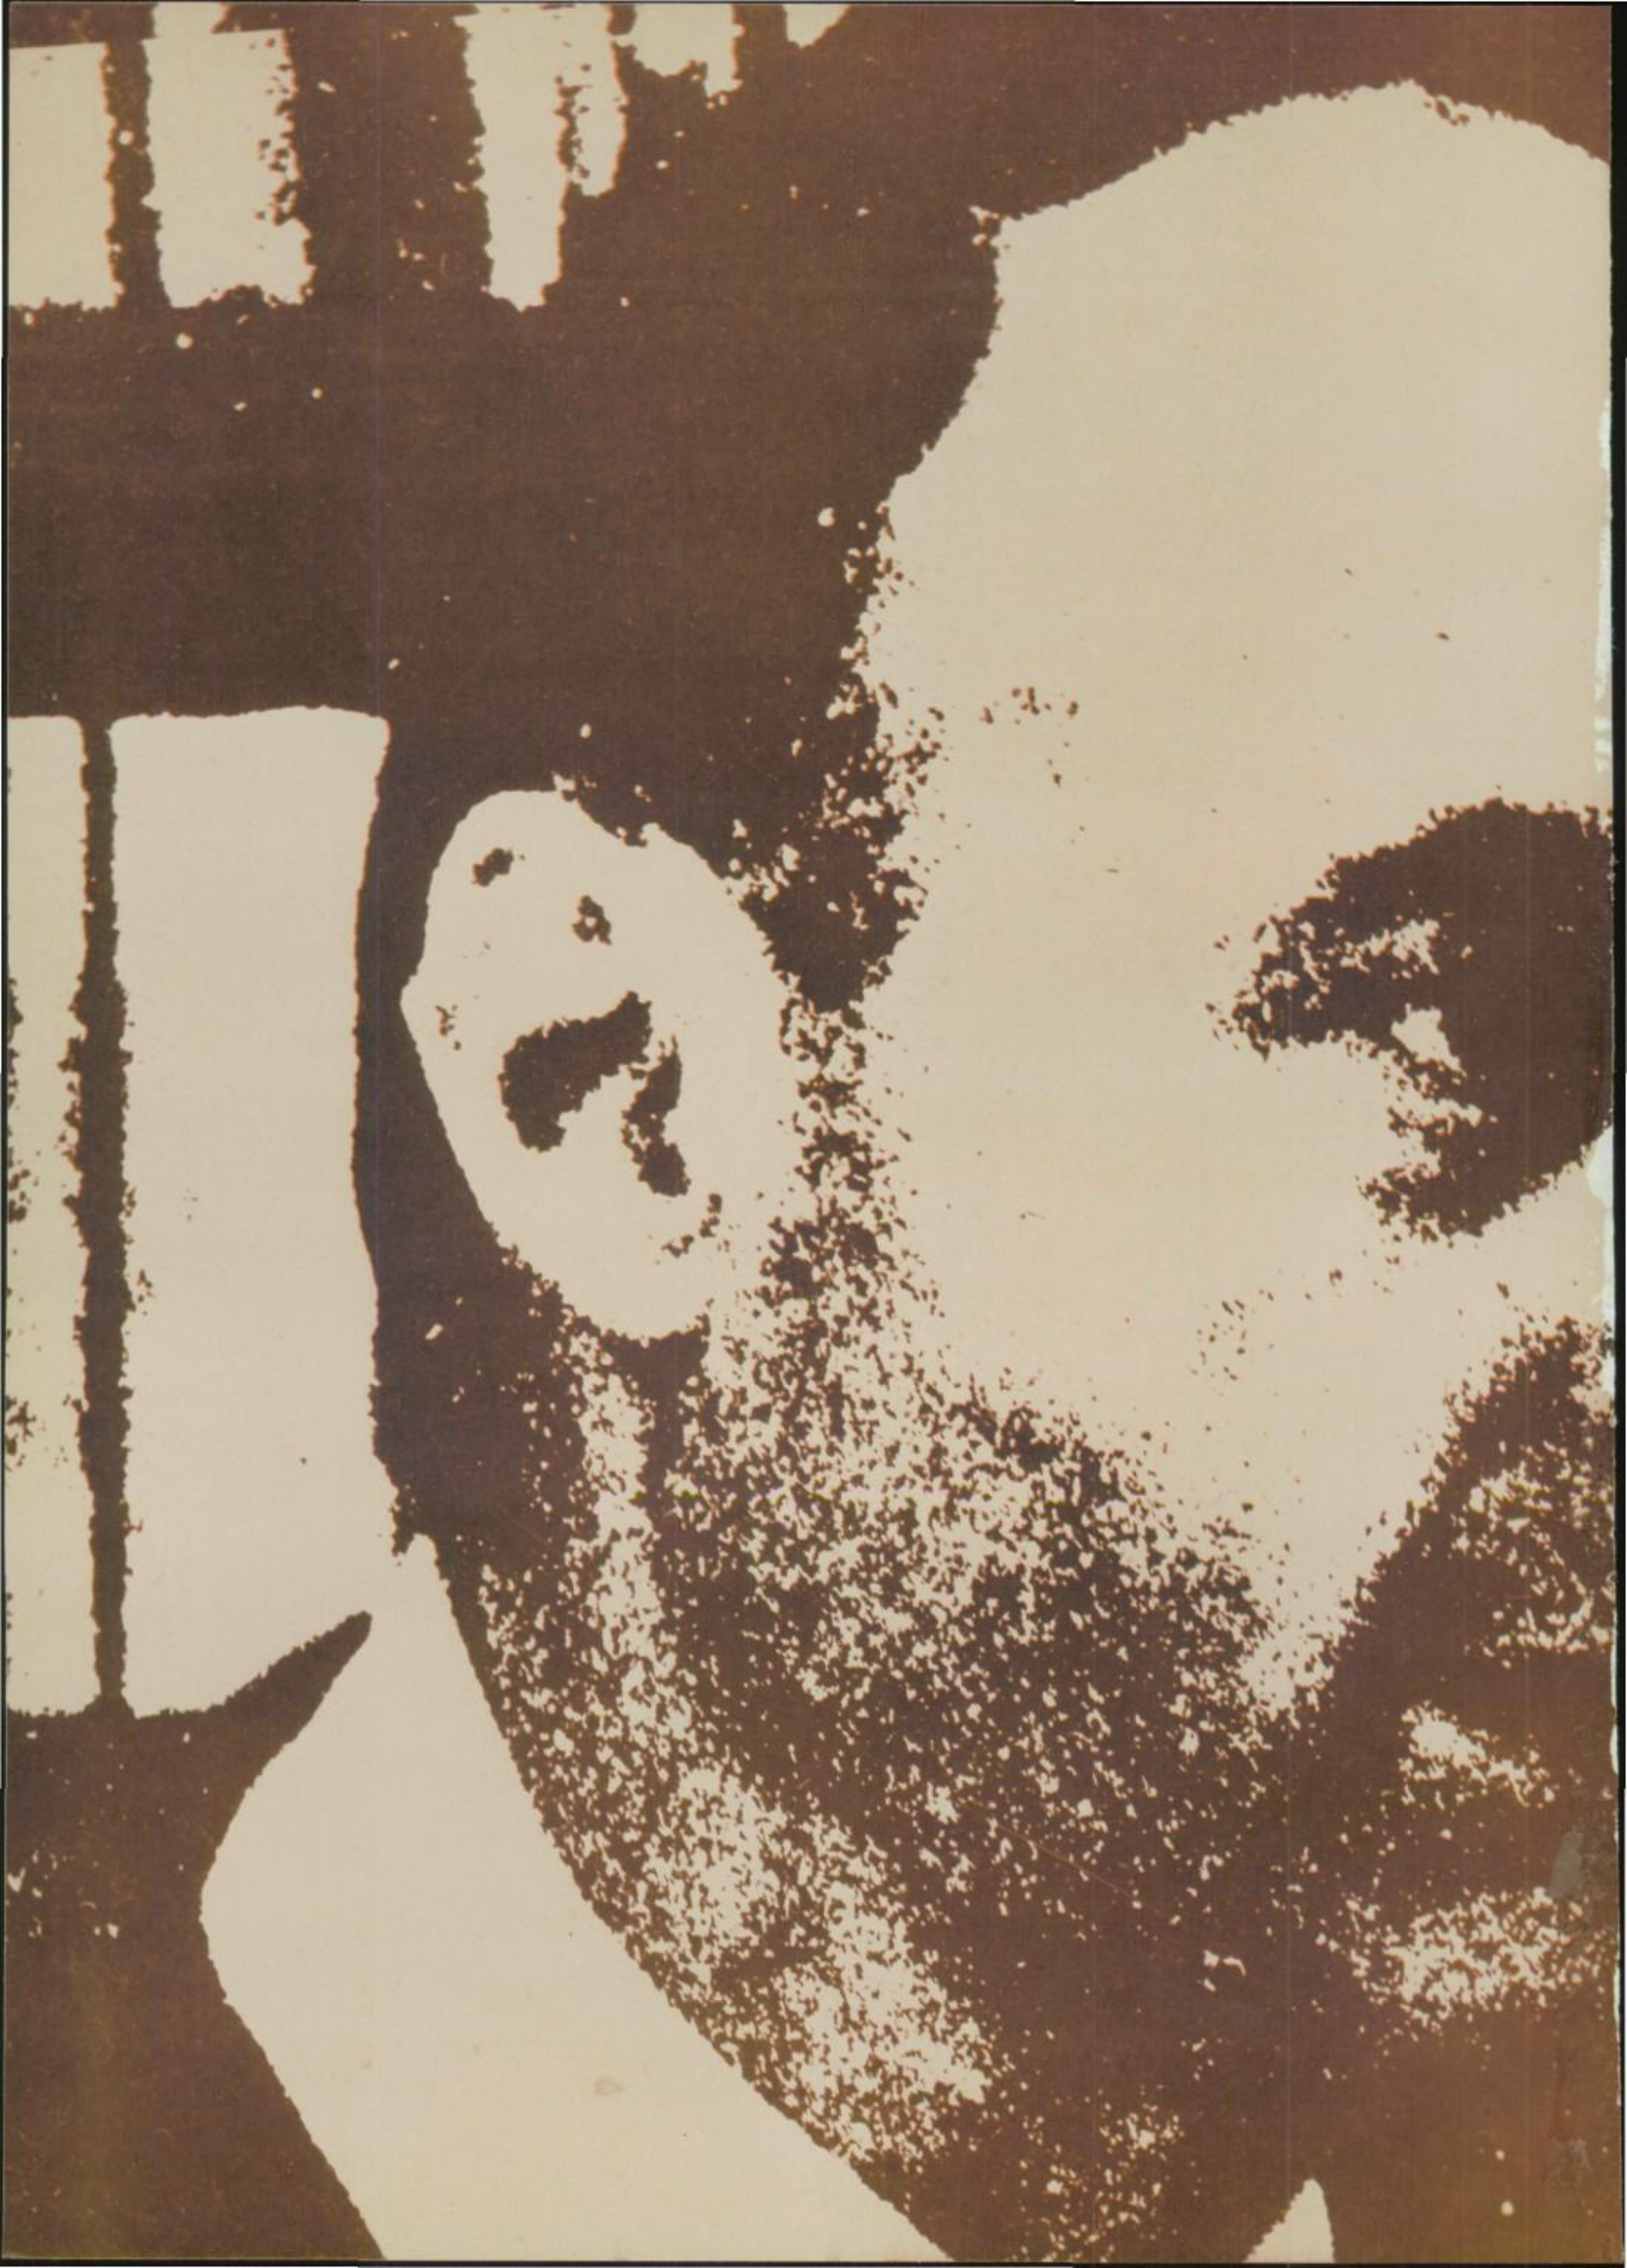


...despite world uneasiness and tension, life at Clackamas High continues .

It is a place where the typical and the untypical combine.



It is a place where people develop and prepare themselves through education for a better tomorrow.



ACADEMICS

A time to remember ...

assignments, tests, and red pencils.

MR. CLIFTON MILLEN

Principal

Now in his second year as principal of Clackamas High School, Mr. Clifton Millen has become a very familiar face at all school functions. He can be seen enjoying our dramatic productions or demonstrating his spirit at our athletic games.

Communication between staff and students has been his theme for the year which he has supported by instigating the successful student-faculty assembly committee. He realizes that students are human beings who have feelings and difficulties. It is his goal to promote this feeling among everyone.

Clackamas High School is very fortunate to have such a dedicated person who is all for us.

Assistant Principal

As assistant principal, Mr. Newton has the unpleasant task of disciplinarian. This title by no means indicates the pleasant personality about him.

Mr. Newton is very concerned about student involvement and affairs. Among his concerns are student conduct and discipline. He has tried to improve these situations by calling upon student council for help in the form of an advisory council. We all greatly appreciate his efforts.

English Department

The standard description that English curriculum develops skill in reading, speaking and listening is contemptibly trite. It is like saying that man's nobility and spirit are reckoned by merely summing up skills.

Studying the structure of language -- grammar -- is only a means to develop power in reasoning, reading, writing, and speaking. The writing program develops the art of exposition and persuasion -- tangible projections of the coherent and rational mind.

"Mathematics - The key to unlock the universe."

The major innovation of the Math Department was the establishment of a course in industrial mathematics. Continuation of The National Mathematics Contest and sponsorship of the Clackamas chapter of Mu Alpha Theta as well as a new approach to senior refresher arithmetic are other areas in which the department is concerned.

Physical Education Department

Activities of the Physical Education Department provide students with an opportunity to develop their physical stamina. Both lively games and vigorous exercises are employed to aid each student's well being.

Each season brings its own series of new activities--football, basketball, tumbling, soccer, volleyball, tennis, weight-lifting, and many others.

It is the hope of each P. E. instructor that every student develops an interest in a physical education activity which he can enjoy through his lifetime.

After taking general homemaking as a freshman, girls may select semester classes to plan an additional 3 year program, to specialize or to fit selected classes into their high school program. Also, there are offerings in home furnishings, family living and dress design which are open to any sophomore, junior, or senior.

Foreign Language Department

The Foreign Language Department endeavors to teach the speech and culture of the target language. Generally, the audio-lingual method is implemented. Students benefit from learning the various skills of understanding, speaking, reading and writing by widening their intellectual horizons. Great personal enrichment is the result.

Fine Arts Department

The Fine Arts program embodies a very important part of our total culture. Culture is what man does with life--what he sees, hears, thinks, says, feels,--the way he lives. One should study man's culture because if he is to be a living, thinking human being, able to discuss the great ideas and experiences of man, he must know what man has thought and done.

The Fine Arts Department through its many diverse activities attempts to give each student an opportunity to study, to experience, and to express a portion of our culture in music, art, and speech.

Industrial Arts Department

Mechanical drawing, wood shop, and metal shop make up the Industrial Arts Department. In the industrial arts classes students learn to make the mind and the hands work together. They find practical applications for mathematics, physics, and chemistry that are meaningful and enjoyable. Learning to produce beautiful and useful products is a rewarding experience. For many students this experience opens the door for future careers.

Librarian

Mr. James A. Baker has been at Clackamas for six years as librarian. The library at Clackamas High School has 18,000 books, 150 different magazines, 300 records, and 300 display prints. Besides being in charge of all this, Mr. Baker also manages audio-visual equipment and materials for our building, including T. V., and 16mm films. All films shown are handled by Mr. Baker and his student assistants.

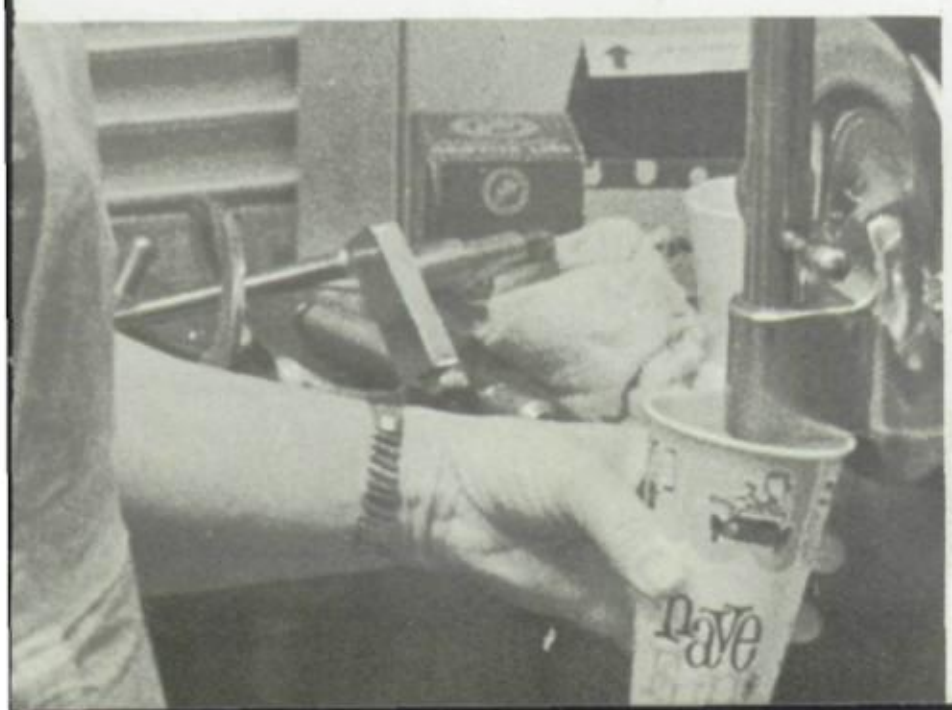
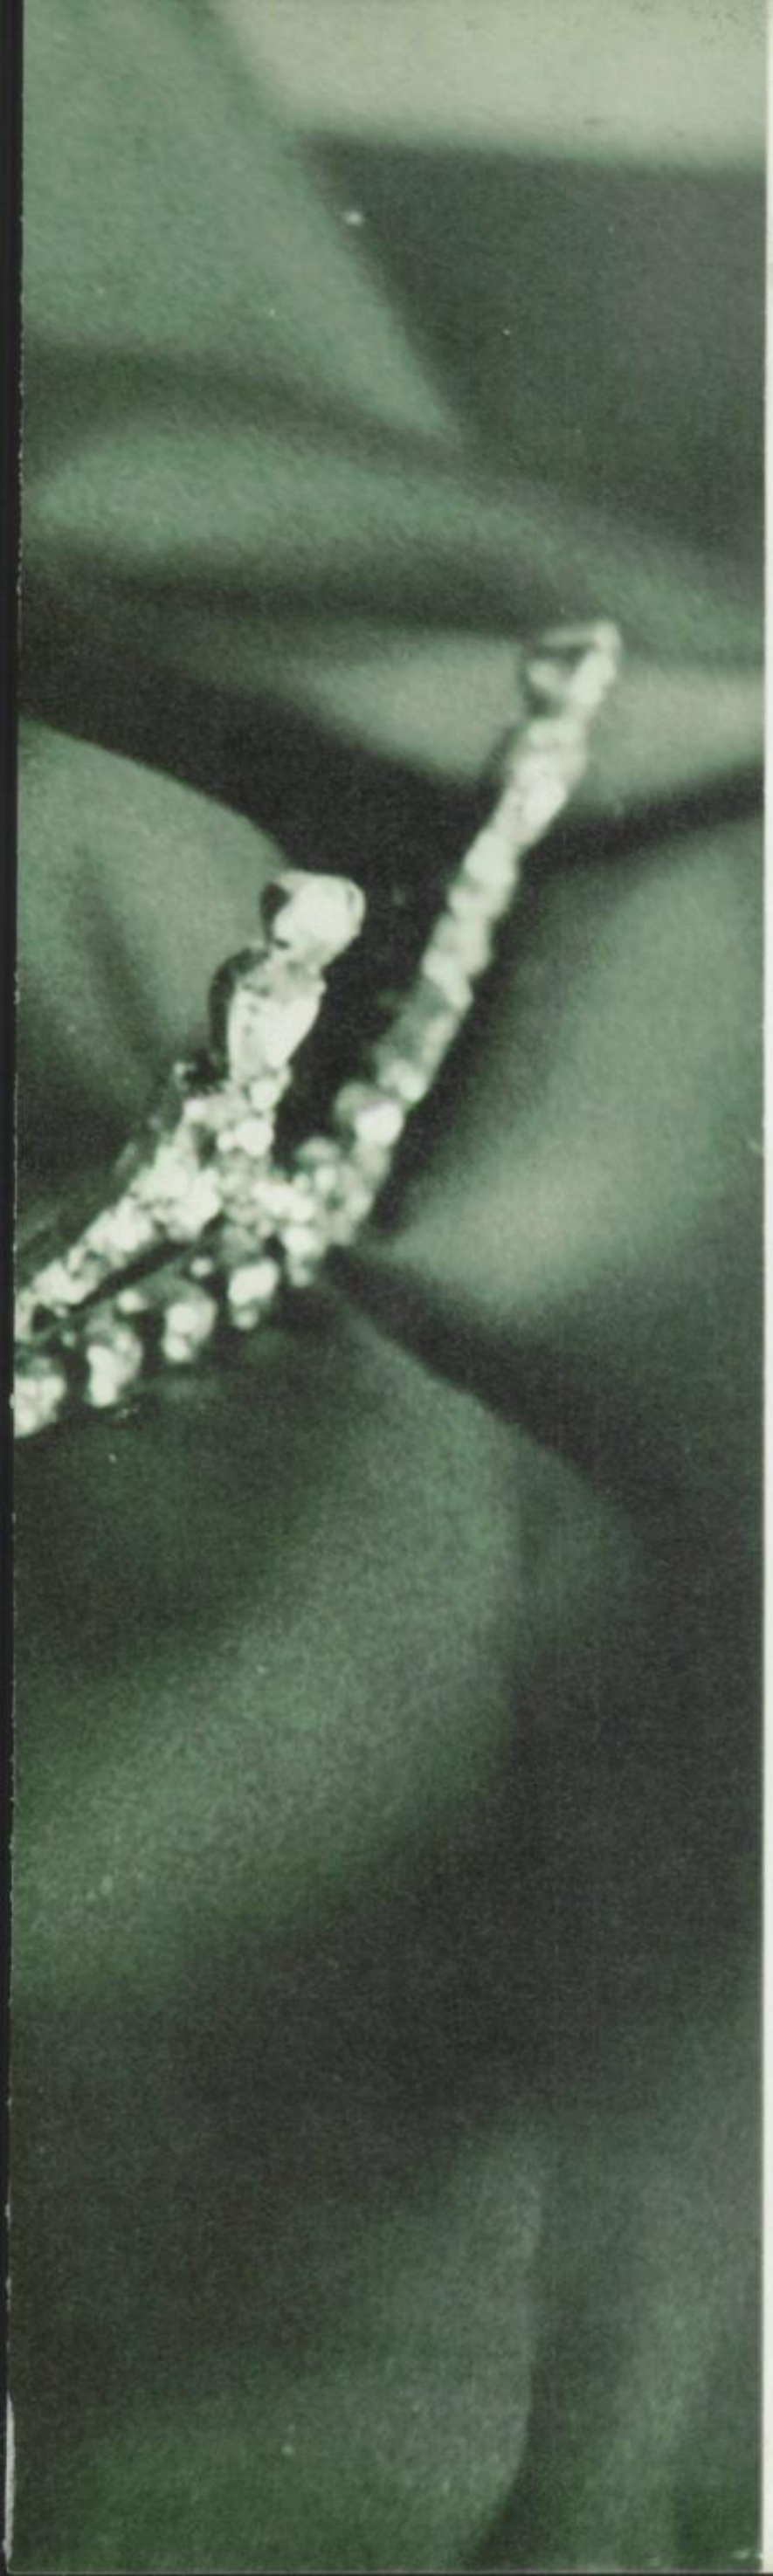
Cooks, custodians and bus drivers

Throughout the year, some of the most important work done at Clackamas is that which is done behind the scenes. The cooks, custodians, and busdrivers play a mojor role in the efficiency of the school and without these people it would be impossible for the student body to function properly.





HONORS

December - Kathy Ledgerwood and

February - Reiko Nagai and Bill Breitenstein

January - Lynn Grenz and Lyn Osborne

Darrel Stone

Many active students accomplish things monthly that no one sees or hears about. To bring recognition to these people, Girls'and Boys' leagues choose a girl and boy to represent each individual month. These people are the ones who do without asking why, and who help without finding out what's in it for them.

March - Michele Potter and Dave Robnett

April - Karen Kretzer and Roger Robbins

May - Shirley Hegg and Jeff Wood

June - Monica Acuna

Monica Acuna
1968-'69
Foreign Exchange Student

Monica Acuna, a short, pert student from Rosairo, Argentina, was Clackamas High's foreign exchange student this year. Arriving in the United States August 13 gave Monica a chance to acquaint herself with hostess Karen Kretzer and family.

During her stay at Clackamas, Monica had many opportunities to exchange ideas and opinions with American students in informal parties, Girls' League gatherings, and school assemblies.

Swimming, volleyball, and dancing are among Acuna's favorite activities. When she returns home this summer, she will resume her education with emphasis on mathematics.

Contest winners combine beauty, brains and talent

Leslie Ann Larson, an active and attractive senior, was picked Oregon's Junior Miss from a field of twenty-six contestants around the state. Selected on a basis of poise, physical fitness, scholarship, talent, and beauty, Leslie left for a number of scheduled activities late in April. The Junior Miss Pageant at Mobile, Alabama, took place on May 6. The complete support of an enthusiastic student body made Leslie's honor even more exciting to her. Addressing the students she remarked, "It is an experience that I shall never forget for the rest of my life."

Revealing beauty and talent, Lynn Grenz produced a winning combination to gain the title of Miss Milwaukie at the April 12 pageant. The sparkling blonde will compete with other girls for the Miss Oregon title on July 12 at Seaside. Placing in the Miss Milwaukie competition from CHS were Barbara Fletcher, fourth runner-up, and Michele Potter, first runner-up. Both Leslie and Lynn made 1969 a most successful and exciting class.

Class council, consisting of many hard-working members of the senior class, has proven to be a very effective organization. During its four years the class council has changed little in membership, working together as a unit promoting spirit and sponsoring activities. "Raindrops and Roses", the 1968 Junior-Senior Prom, was totally organized and sponsored by the class of '69. Members of the council spent numerous hours laboring in coordinating different committees and decorating the cafeteria. The dance was one of the most successful in Clackamas' history.

Probably the most outstanding feature of the class of '69 was its record of school spirit. During the past four years, five out of seven spirit weeks were won by this hard-working group. The class council was largely responsible for this impressive record. It combined the often unrelated efforts of individual students and formed from them a class that functioned and performed as one body.

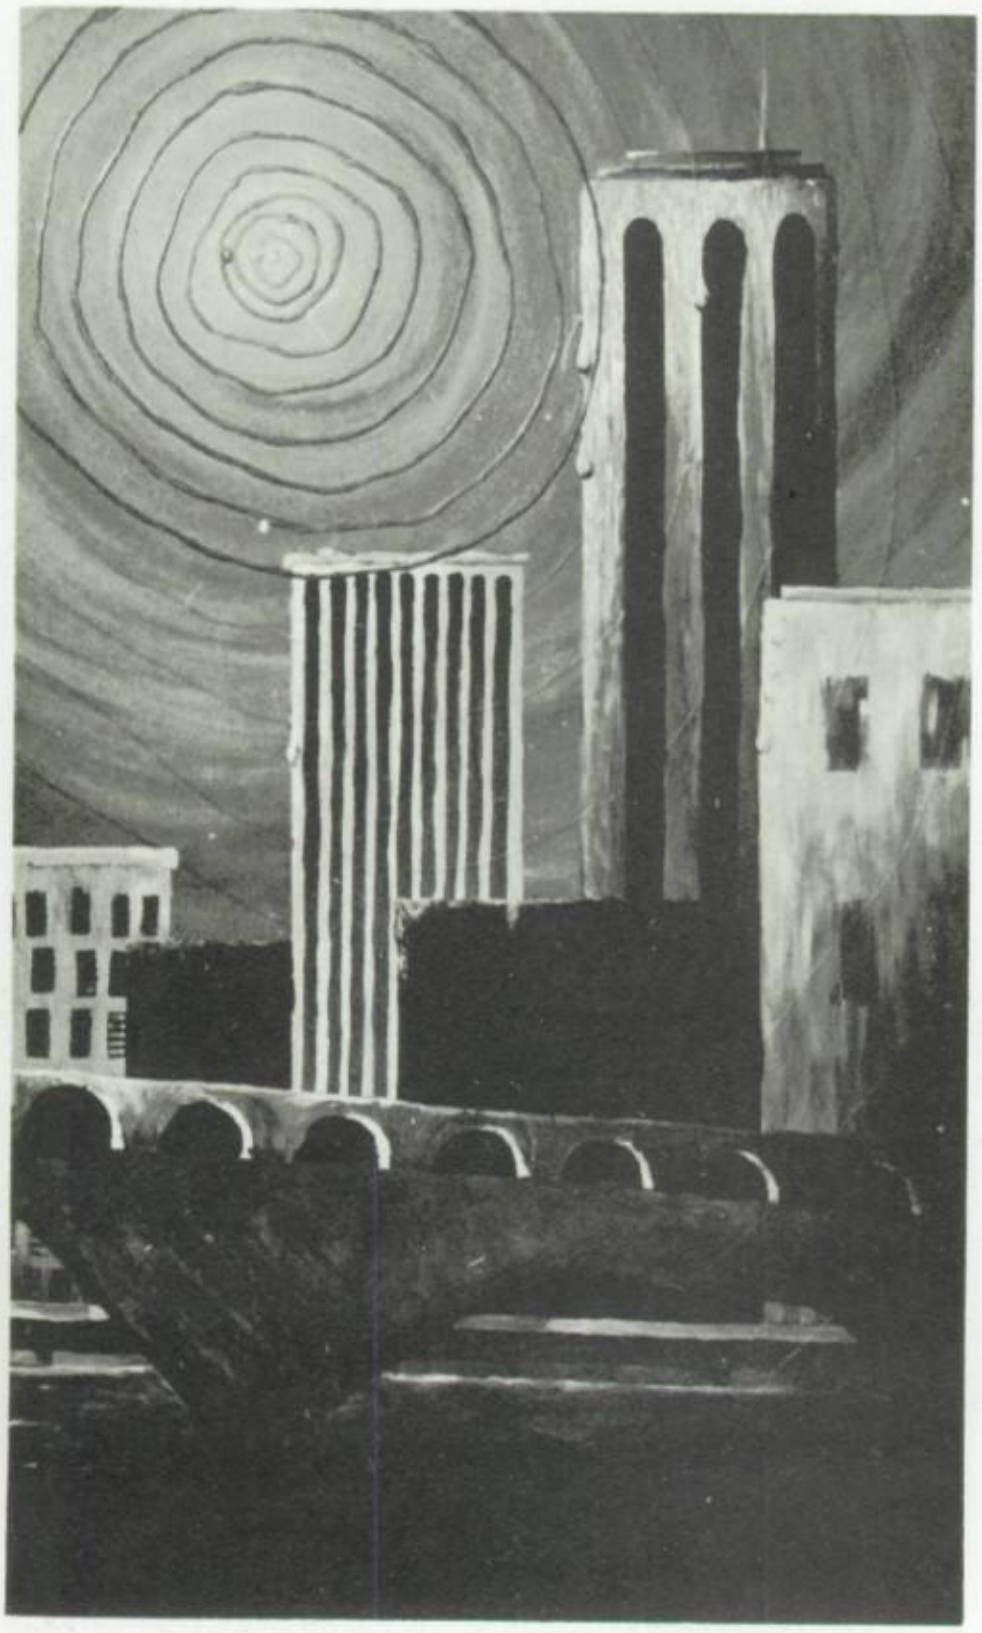
FINE ARTS

A time to remember ...

rehearsals, applause, and curtain calls.

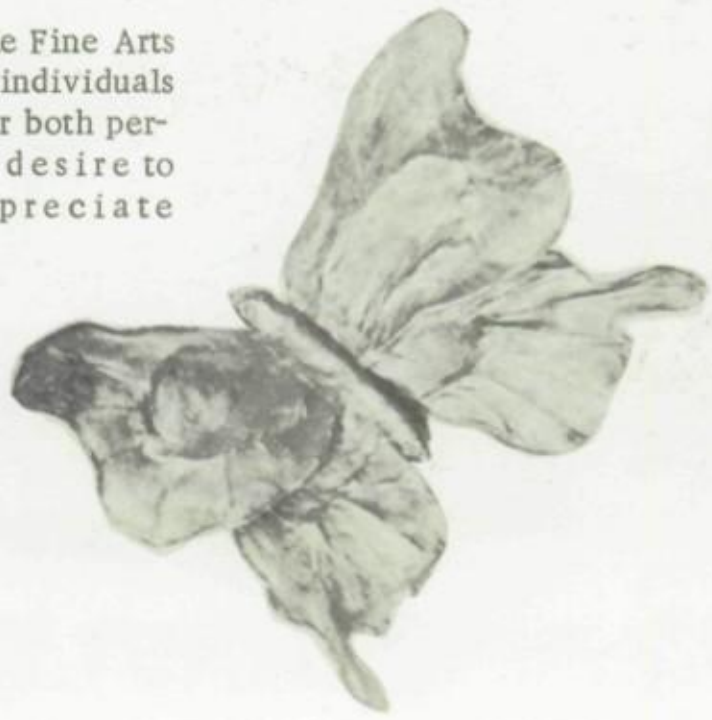
From brushes to brass. . .



Express the mind with the hands . . .
the heart with the voice . . .
And a creative feat ensues.

scripts to sculpture

From brushes to brass, scripts to scores, the Fine Arts Department provides the opportunity for individuals to persue special interests and talents--for both personal and public pleasure. Spurred by the desire to explore the arts, the student learns to appreciate various creative tasks.



A Cappella Choir

Under the guidance of a new choir director, Mr. Don Wolfe, the Clackamas High a cappella choir enjoyed an active and exciting year. Climaxing the year's events was a tentative trip to Victoria, British Columbia for three days to perform for Queen Elizabeth's birthday celebration.

For the first time in its history, the choir chose officers to become responsible for the distribution of music, attendance recording, and fund raising projects. Donut sales, car washes, paper drives, garage sales, and a special donation assembly headed the list of fund raising drives. Money obtained was geared to help finance the Victoria trip.

The main objective of Mr. Wolfe and his choir was not only to instill vocal unity and perfection but also to establish unity and spirit of the singers as a group. Abilities of each choir member varied, but the goal was the same: spirit and pride for being a Clackamas High a cappella member.

One of the busiest behind-the-scenes group at Clackamas is the photography class. Too often is their work taken for granted.

Whether it be for the newspaper, the yearbook, or publicity, these students have the satisfaction of knowing that they provide an important service by giving the students and community a pictorial record of the activities at Clackamas High School.

After the first Friday night performance, Dave Gately, plagued with an untimely case of laryngitis, was unable to perform the next night. Consequently, Mr. Shields was called upon to take Dave's place. It was quite an experience for the entire cast.

The cast not only had to play their roles and respond to his adlibbing, they also had to cue him during the performance.

Drama teacher and director, Mr. Shields capitalized on his experiences gained through such organizations as the Playbox Players to save a performance of Kismet.

Freshmen welcomed into Clackamas

Filled with uneasiness and expectation, over 300 freshmen entered Clackamas High to begin four years of schooling in which they can either apply themselves and be successful or shove aside their studying responsibilities and gain little useful knowledge for the future.

Those already acquainted with high school life welcomed the newcomers and wished for them good years to come. Hopefully, the freshmen--the future seniors of CHS-- will learn from the experiences of others and will follow the wiser's advice.

Big and little sisters begin new friendships

Big and little sisters enjoyed a second childhood by romping, jumping, and laughing in Mt. Scott Park at this year's Girls' League picnic held in the fall.

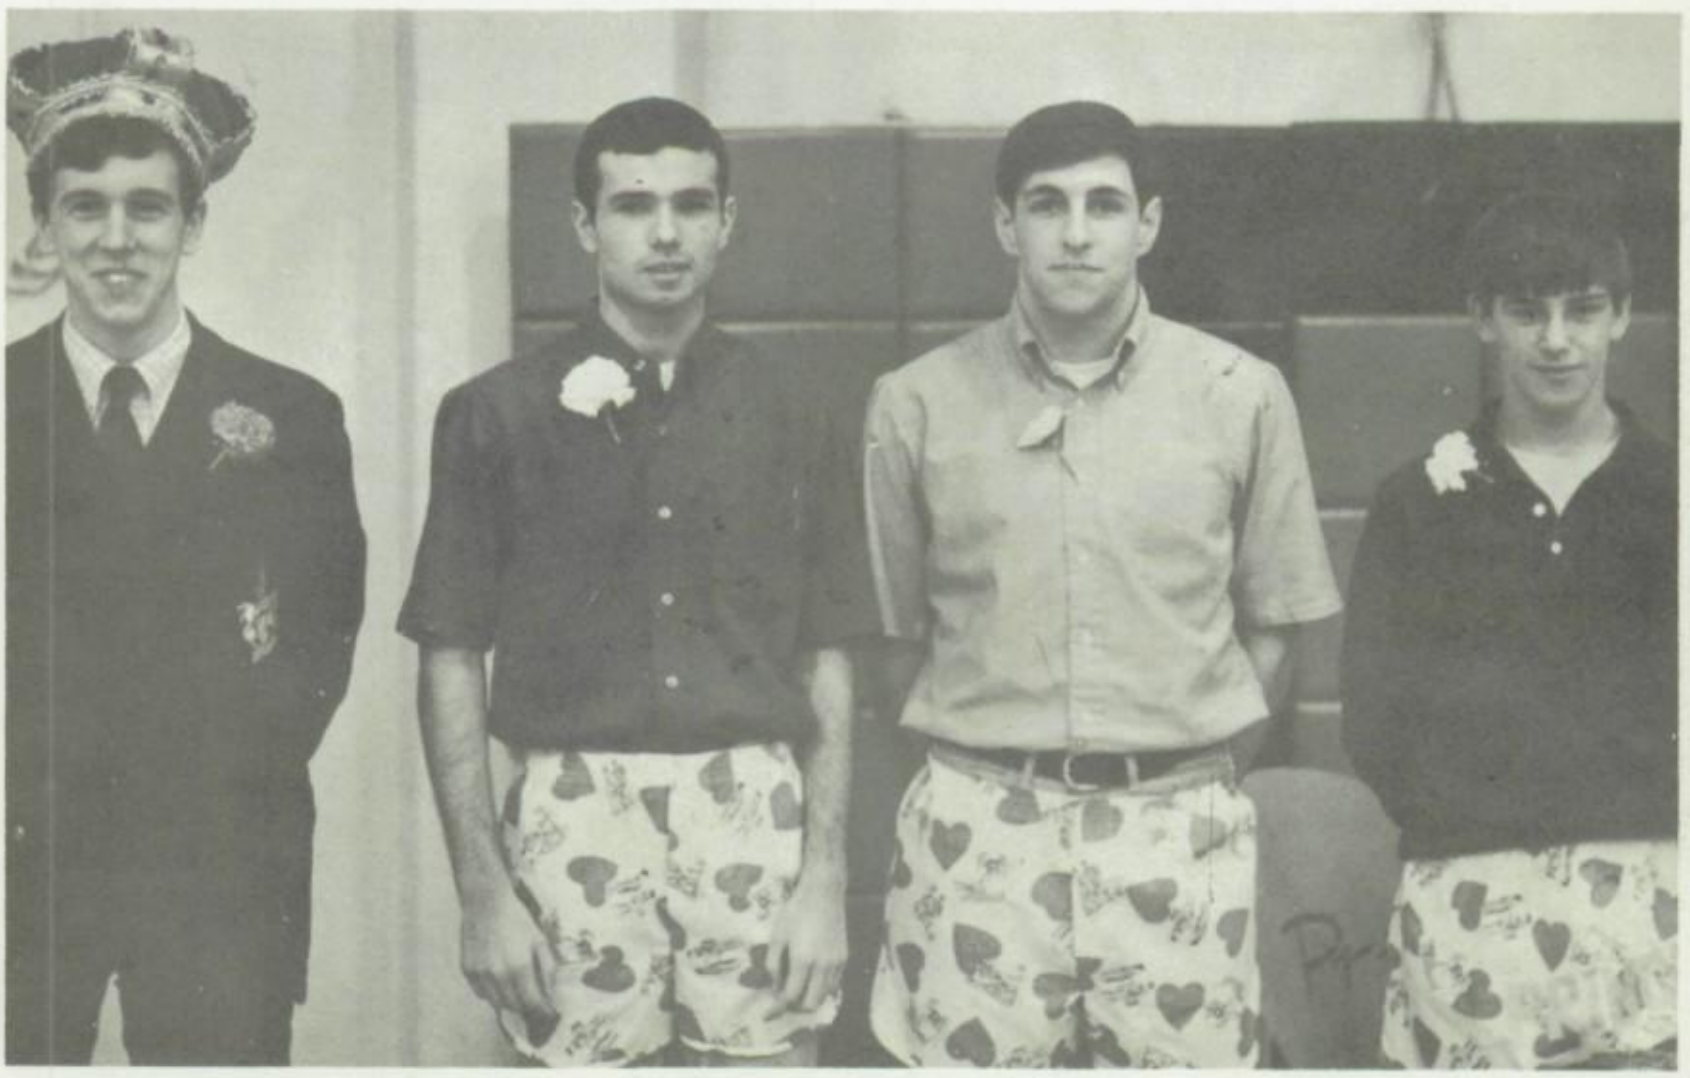
The relatively new rock group, Disraeli, presented a thirty minute performance before a very impressed Clackamas student body. Touring local high schools, the group also has performed at the Memorial Coliseum in Portland.

One of the most dramatic assemblies involved a karate demonstration. Above are two female karate experts who demonstrated self-defense tactics which may be handy.



A king and three princes are humorous additions to the Clackamas courts. Crowned at the "King of Hearts" assembly on Valentine's Day were Dan Isbell (king) and princes Lyn Osborne, Dave Robnett, and Tony McBride. Students gave money to their favorite candidate, with each penny representing one vote. Proceeds from the "election" were donated to a local charity which goes by the name of FISH.

Spirited seniors prove unbeatable in Cavalier's traditional Clackamas held two spirit weeks during the year, to the delight of most students. Class competition highlights the event. Seniors have lost just twice during their four years at Clackamas High School.

To join in the excitement and confusion of an election year, Clackamas organized its own political rally. Adding to the success of the event were balloons, confetti, a stubborn donkey, and protesting hippies. Guest speaker for the occasion was Robert Packwood.

After the rally, students voted for national and state candidates. Indicating the mood of the country, Clackamas students elected both Nixon and Packwood.

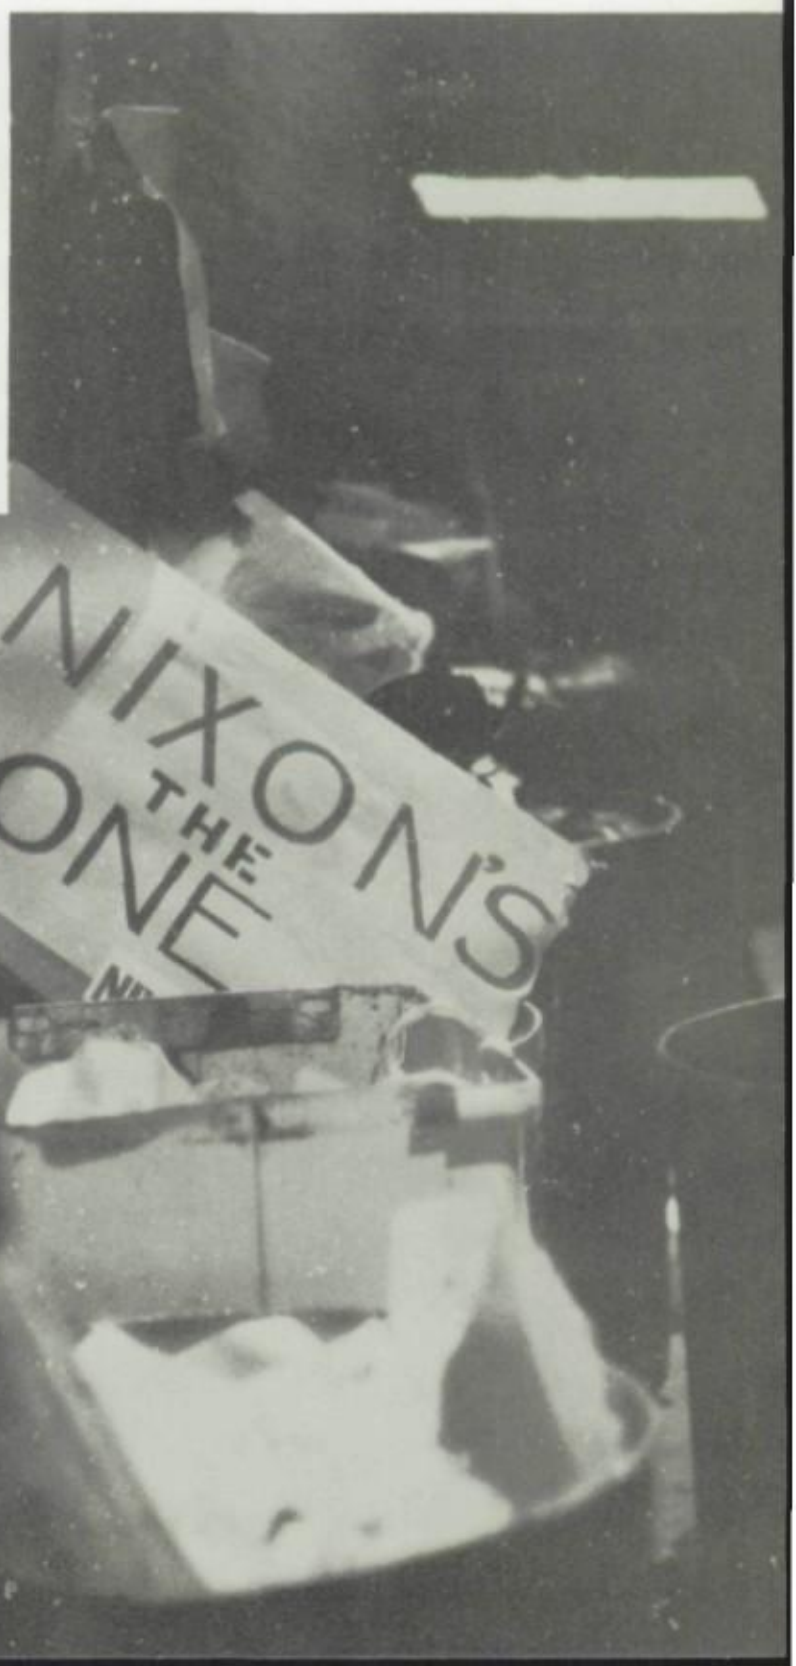
Students capture '68 election mood during political rally

Out with the old–in with the new as Packwood

Beyond the moment of pretend, with its gayety and confetti, lies the sobering reality that soon the world's problems will be ours. We have an obligation to use the knowledge we have gained to improve where others have failed. What kind of world will our children inherit from us? Will there ever be peace? Questions. Always questions. We must never stop asking. But soon it is we who will be answering as well.

and Nixon bring new hopes for the future

Attending his first high school mock Republican convention, Mr. Robert Packwood is greeted by Dan Isbell, Randy Snyder, and a host of other students at the October 22 assembly. Packwood beat Senator Morse in the state's closest race. Only after a recount did Morse concede.



The new Packwood generation and the new Nixon platform made successful bids in their race for political office in November. Expressing ideas for national unity, peaceful settlement of Vietnam, reduction of national violence and indebtedness, these two men now have the awsome task of putting their ideas into workable, satisfactory motion.

Seniors at work, planning for the future

Many students at Clackamas are also wage earners in a number of local establishments. Besides providing them with extra spending money and savings for college, part-time jobs give them valuable training and experience for future careers.

Most working students will admit, however, that the dual role of student and employee makes it difficult to maintain good grades and keep up a social life as well.

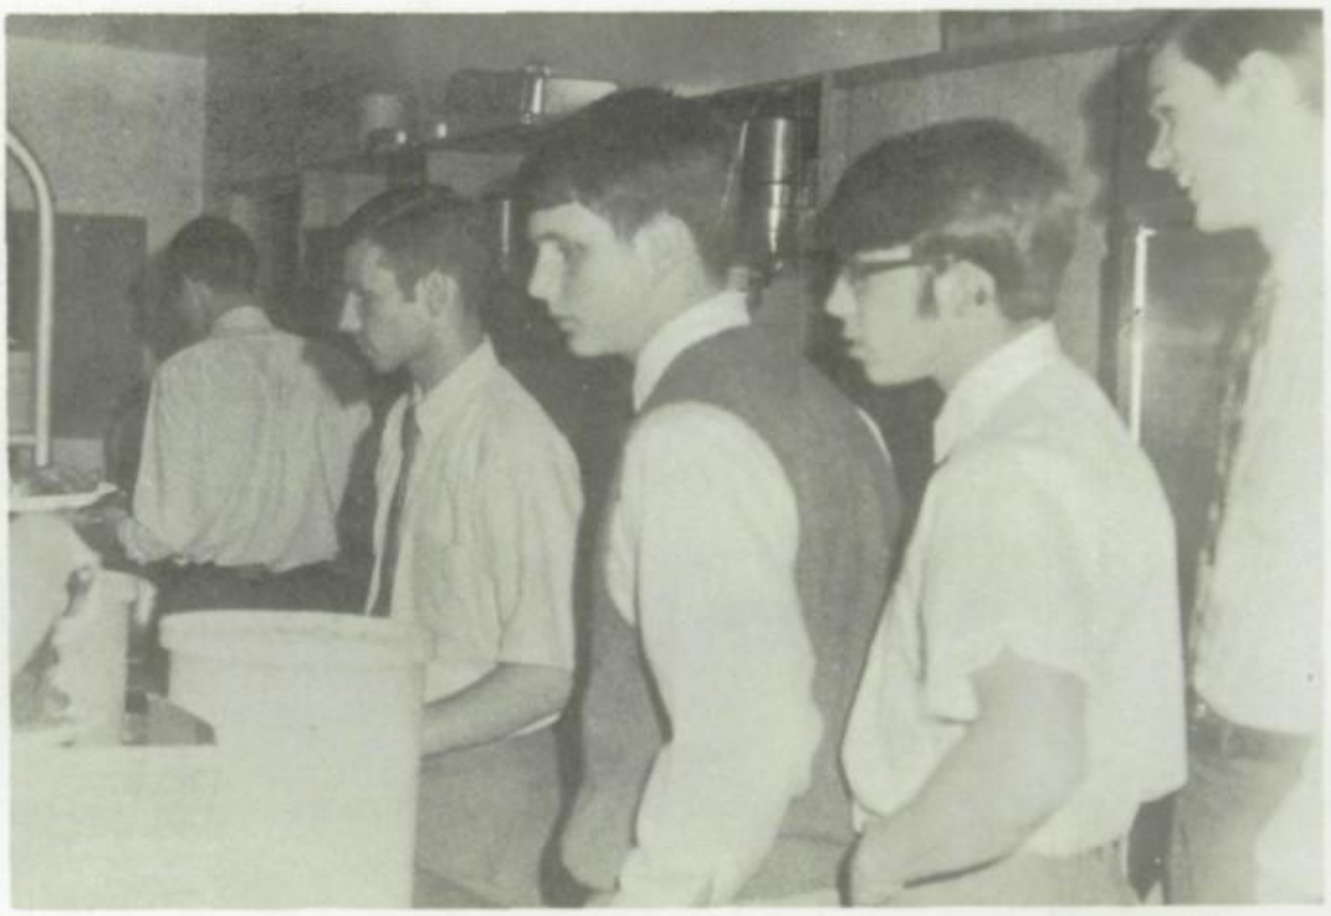
Fathers dine at banquet of Dads and Dolls

The twelfth annual Father-Daughter Banquet held at Clackamas High School was once again a success. This Girls' League activity filled the cafeteria to its capacity for an evening of music, laughter and good food.

Chairmen of the banquet, Sandy Ledgerwood, acts as mistress of ceremonies.



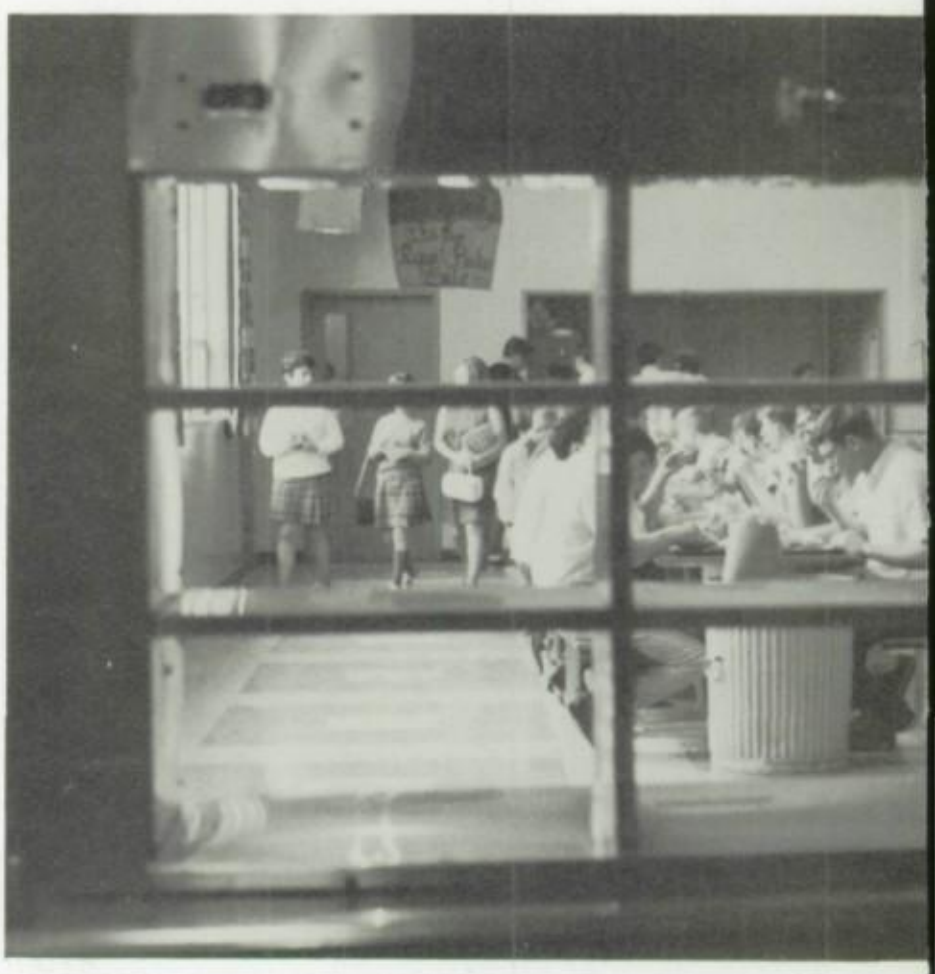
After serving the guests at the banquet, the volunteer boys got their chance at some of the food. Their efforts were greatly appreciated by league girls.

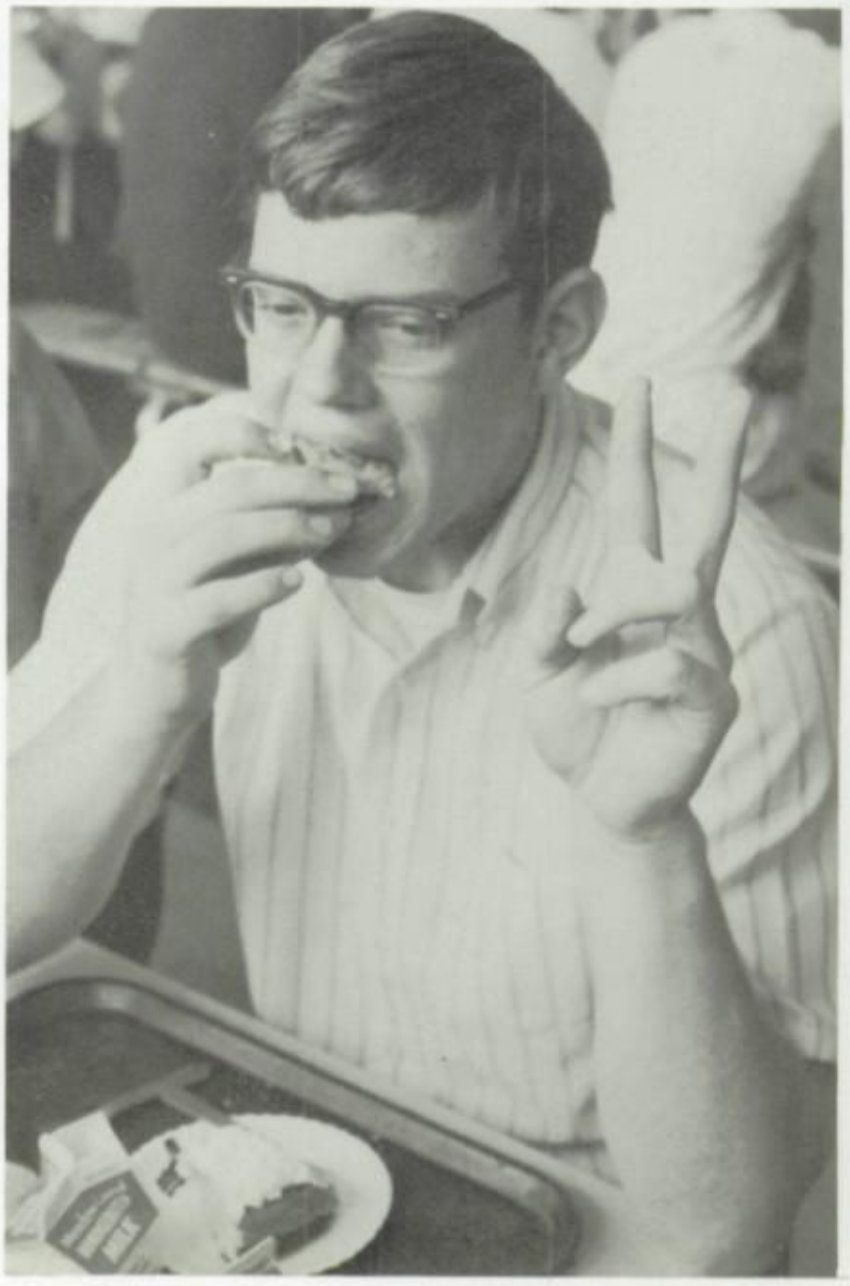
Election skits and speeches were given the attention of the Clackamas girls in the March Girls' League assembly. The last assembly of the year for the girls is that of an officer installation.

Girls' and Boys' League in action

Throughout the year, Girls' and Boys' leagues sponser many varied assemblies. Working to bind the students of Clackamas together, the respective counsels plan assemblies that will not only instruct and teach but also amuse and entertain.

A demonstration and explanation regarding the workings of remote controlled airplanes held the boys' attention during the assembly held in May.





Despite conflicting beliefs and ideas in today's world, one interest remains common to all -- food.

Students learn of world involvement

Joining with Milwaukie High School students, the Clackamas International Relations club participated in a complex inter-nation simulation in the spring. The 50 students left typical learning situations for one of make-believe in which their own "countries" made laws and international agreements. In the end, destruction to half of the countries resulted from nuclear bombings.

Contemplating their country's fate after they can no longer defend it are Debbie Adrian, Jim Riegelmann, and Pat Ventura.

After the two days of world simulation completed, students gathered to discuss their observations and activities. Leading the discussion were Mr. Kobos, from Milwaukie, and Mr. Walker, from Clackamas.

Head of State Mike Newman joins fellow Inge citizens to determine policies and courses of action for the state's future existence.

Preparations made for fall of 1969

Leading the 1969 fall student body officers is Linda Wiles (seated in middle). Linda made history by being elected the first girl student body president at Clackamas High School. The other officers for the fall term are Becky Strasser, first vice-president; Ric Foreman, second vice-president; Debbie Mervyn, secretary; Tony McBride, treasurer.

Elections

During the winter of 1968, the constitution of Clackamas High School underwent considerable change. Included were revisions to Mr. Cavalier's duties and election dates, but the greatest changes related to student body offices themselves--elections and presidential duties.

Starting in the fall of 1969, Clackamas will have two sets of student body officers, one for fall semester and one for spring. Both sets of officers will work together the entire year for the betterment of the associated student body.

The other major revision dealt with the duties of the president. No longer is he in charge of the student council meetings. For that job a general council chairman has been placed. Hopefully, this will permit the student body president more time to work with the executive council and the administration.

Rally tryouts

Traditionally, May is the month for rally tryouts--a time when stomachs fill with butterflies. Many hours of practice go into preparing a fine rally.

Cavs tripped by tough opponents

Unfortunately for this year's football squad, games are not won by statistics. Although the Cavaliers outplayed four opponents, they only won two games in the '68 season. Commanded by a new head coach, Mr. Robin Beck, the varsity played respectable football throughout the season.

Beaverton blanked the Cavs in the opening game, 26-0. Once again the Milwaukie Mustangs defeated the Cavs and maintained possession of the victory bell in the 19-6 contest. Victory finally came to the squad in the Astoria match. Juniors Rick Van Dorn and Dennis Murphy were offensive standouts in the 13-7 win. Sparking the defense were seniors Roger Robbins and Erik Gustafsson.

Central Catholic handed the Cavs their biggest loss by trouncing CHS 37-0. After a close first half the Rams ran a scoring spree that was too much to overcome. The following two games were almost perfect matches, with Clackamas ending on the short side of the scordboard both times. Two missed extra points provided Gresham with a heartbreaking 14-12 victory.

In another tight battle, Clackamas lost to Centennial 12-7, despite a statistical edge in yards gained.

Both rain and a Clackamas victory dampened Rex Putnam's homecoming festivities. A strong offense and an alert defense combined to hand the Kingsmen a 20-7 loss.

The varsity was held scoreless in its last two encounters. An inability to move the ball offensively accounted for Parkrose's 12-0 victory. League champion David Douglas made numerous mistakes in its 24-0 defeat over the Cavs, but the CHS team failed to capitalize on them.

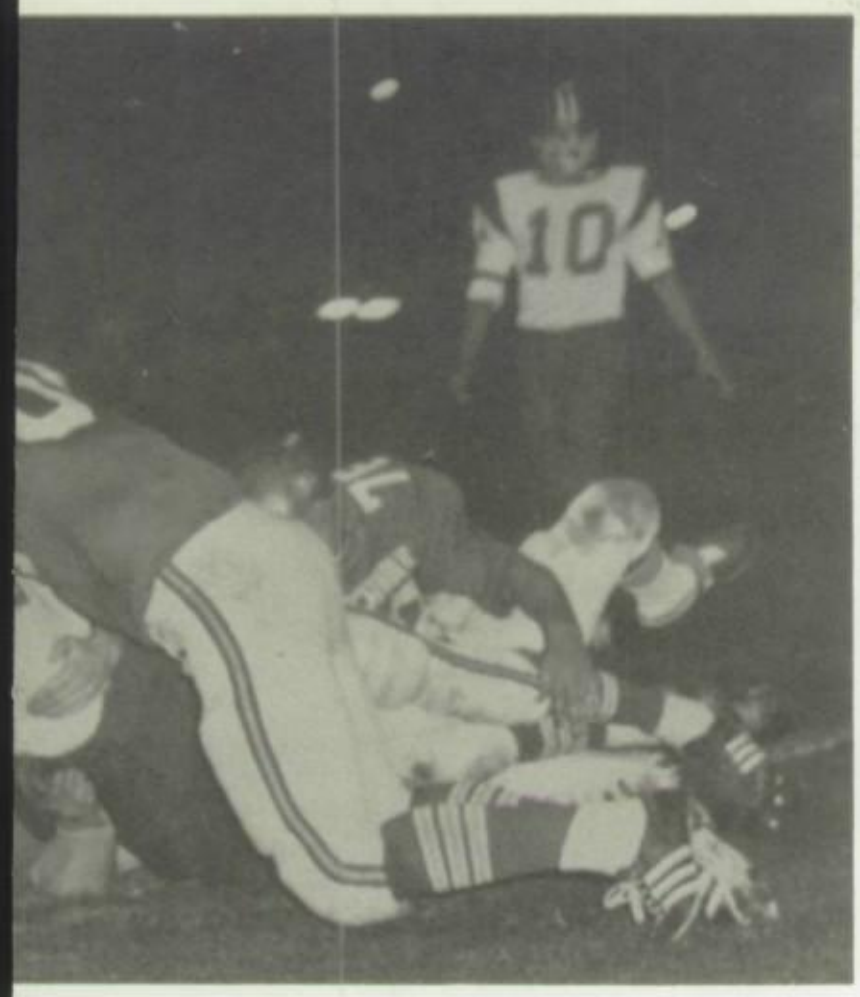
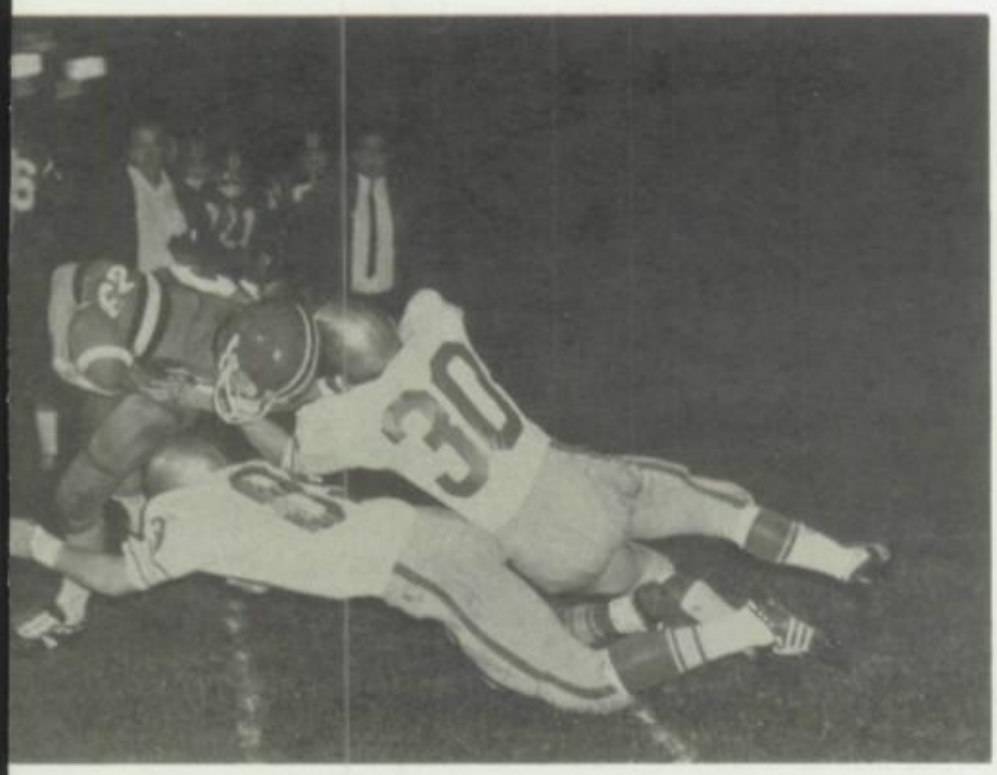
Linebacker Skip Kimes zeros in for a tackle against an opponent's quarterback. Playing his third year on the varsity squad and being co-captain, Skip added a vast amount of experience and know-how to a young team.



Mike Wellock is dropped for a loss by three Central Catholic players. Much to the displeasure of the Cavs, this scene was often repeated by the Rams as they held the Cavaliers scoreless.

A mixed up play by the Cavalier offense resulted in a fumble at the line of scrimmage.



Elusive halfback Rick Van Dorn is forced out of bounds after a long gain. Rick led the team in rushing and points and was named most valuable player.

The Cav defense bring down an Astoria back. While the offense was dominated by juniors, the defensive squad was made up mostly of seniors.

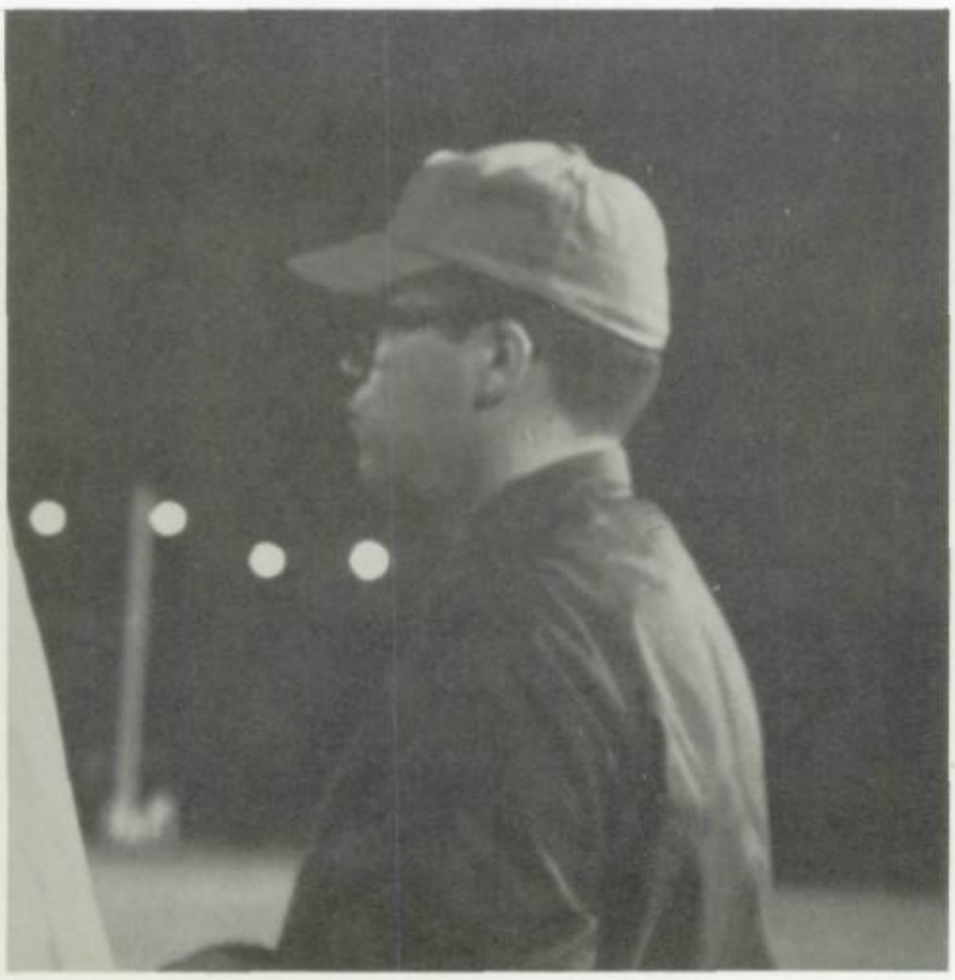
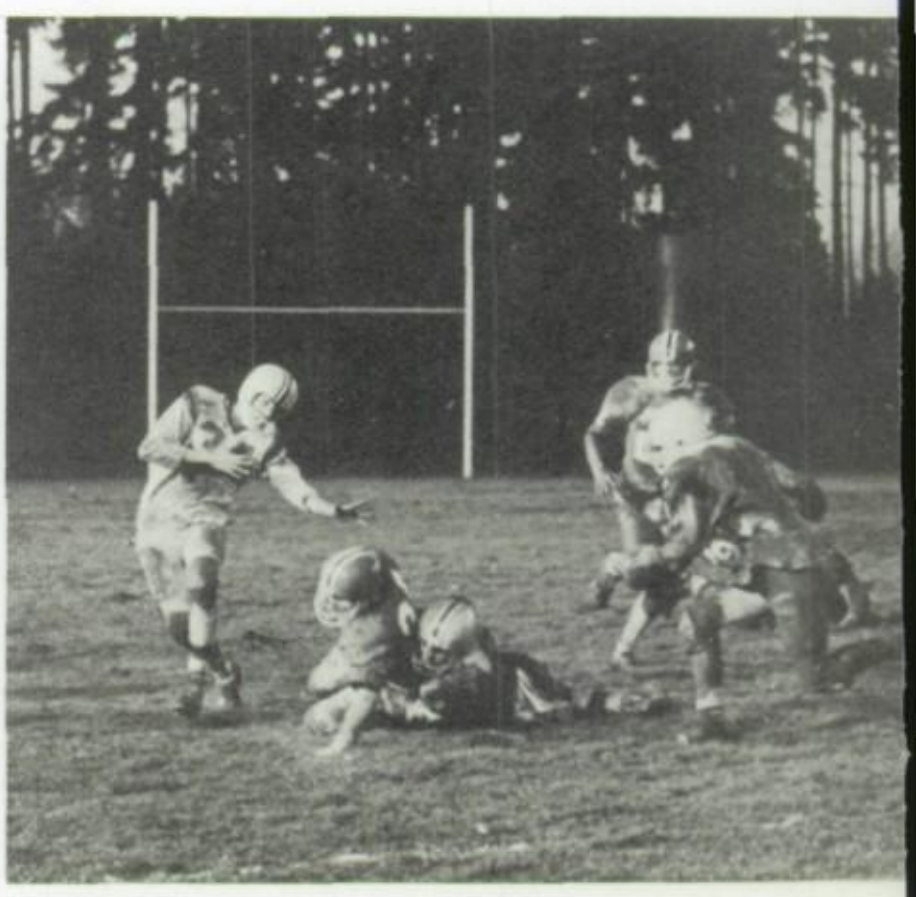
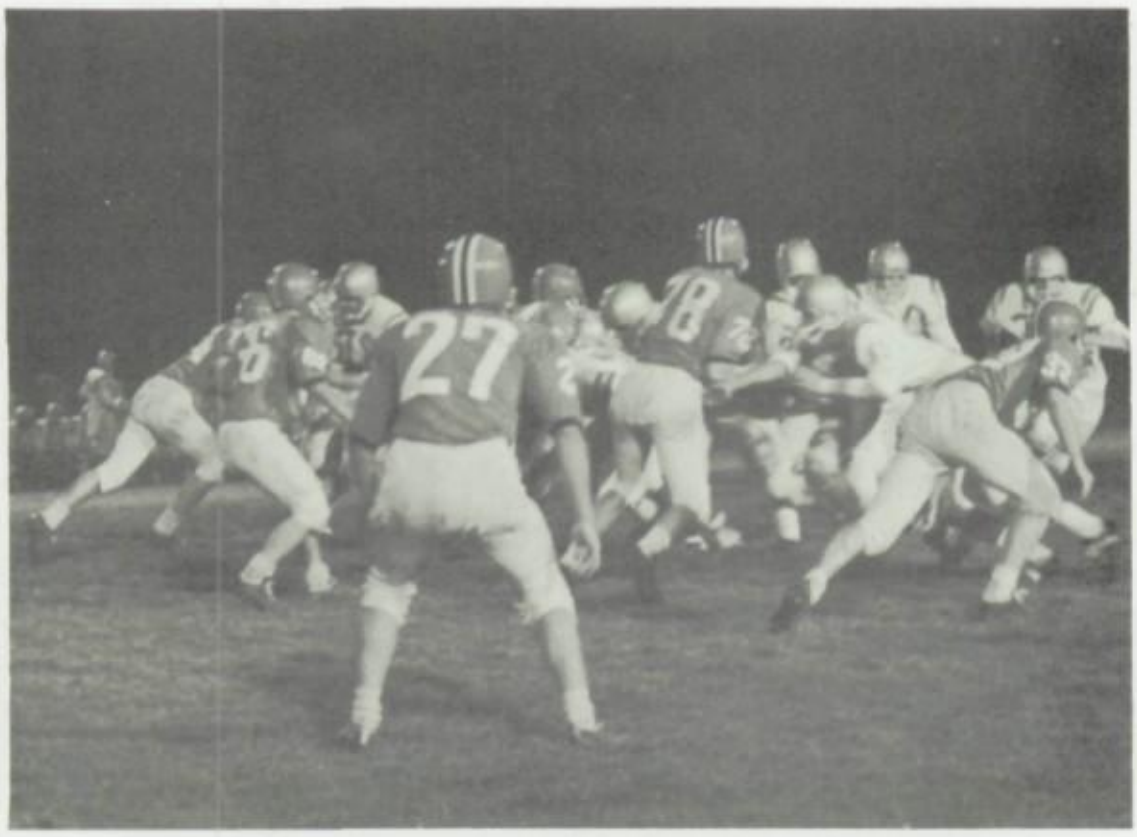
J.V.'s shut out in long, hard season







Outstanding individual performances highlighted the 1968 junior varsity season -- a season in which the team failed to win a single game, though many were close.

Line backer Mike Ellsworth and defensive captain Jim Laxson were the team's outstanding defensive players. Halfback Monte McGee led the offensive game with his 535 yards net rushing for the season, the highest total in several years.

Other hopefuls for next year's varsity are fullback Gary Webb and takcle Larry Griggs.

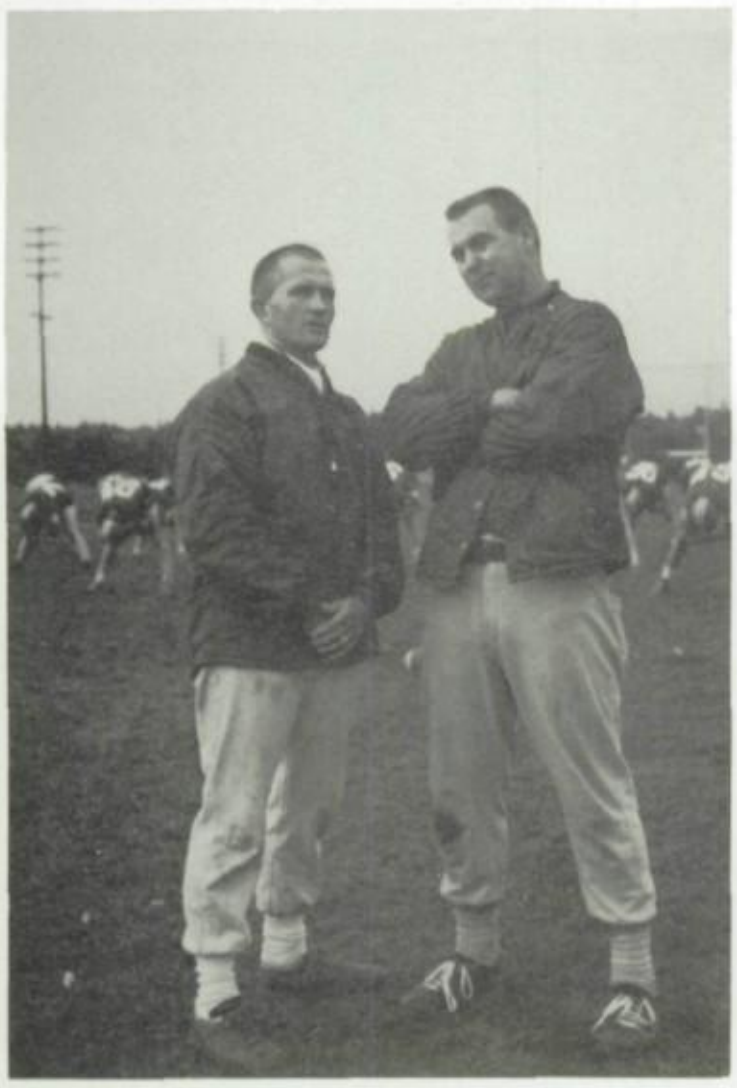
Frosh gain valuable experience



Coaches Geister and Helbig talk over game plans during a warm-up session.

The freshman football team tallied a record to be proud of when you consider their opponents are in a league that consistently turns out some of the best varsity teams in the state. Even though their 3-3 record was not impressive, their performances showed great promise.

Losses came as a result of mental mistakes and bad breaks, as no opponent was able to overpower the young Cavalier team.

Cross-country has best season ever

Receiving instructions from Coach Cook are Shel Philips, Neal Utz and Steve Fendall, the only seniors on the cross-country team. Losing only three seniors is one reason Coach Cook has such high hopes for next season.

Last year marked the first winning cross-country season in Clackamas history. In 1968 the Cavaliers became Division A champions and netted the first trophy by placing second in the eleven team Tillamook Invitational. Overall the harriers finished with a 19 win-8 loss record for a third place in regular standings — the highest yet accomplished.

Pacing the Cavs were Meininger brothers Walt and Carl. Junior Walt was the individual champion and record setter at the Tillamook meet; however, hip and leg problems plagued him the rest of the season. Carl, a sophomore, came on strong to become the number one runner on the Cav team by finishing tenth at District, placing him on the Metro League All-Star team. His teammates selected him as the most valuable and most improved individual in the 1968 season.

Senior Steve Fendall was team captain, and his efforts helped overcome the gap created by Walt's injuries. Rounding out the top five scorers were juniors Mike Warner and Rick Howard; Neal Utz and Shel Philips, seniors; and sophomore Bob Myers.

Determination, ability, dedication - all played a major role on this year's basketball team. But the Cavs suffered a frustrating season anyway, winning only five games in a long, hard season. The Gardner-led five lost their first four contests, which were hard fought yet unrewarding. In their fifth game though, they caught the Broncos from Parkrose off guard and ground out a 45-41 victory. Following this win the Cavs won two of their next three games and displayed promise for the second half. However, disaster struck as the varsity squad dropped its next eight games. Against state-bound Beaverton, the Cavs lost a heartbreaker in the last ten seconds, 61-59. But they were victorious in both matches against Milwaukie, winning the first 51-40 and the second 70-56.

Junior Varsity sets new victory record

Finishing fourth in league play, the 1968-69 Clackamas junior varsity established a new school record by winning 13 games, breaking the 1964-65 record of 11. The J. V.'s defeated every team they played at least once, except for Douglas and Barlow.

Captain Scott Coffee led the team in scoring throughout the season and totaled 243 points. Steve Rickert, voted Most Valuable, led rebounders with 217 and finished second in scoring with 196 points. Mike Reinan was selected Most Improved for his play the entire roundball season.

Highlights included a defeat of Astoria on their home court, 57-49, for the first time in the school's history; a smashing 85-43 victory over Milwaukie to break the old record for most wins; and the scoring of 87 points in a win over Gresham to top a 1965 high of 82 points. Only three times in 22 games were opponents able to score more field goals, and only three times were the junior Cavs outrebounded.

Individual performances spark winning season

At a team meeting Coach Cook prepares a list of trackmen and the events they are scheduled to compete in the following day. Field events proved the strength of the varsity track team with competition keen in most categories, particularly the shotput. In this event Randy Pfenning broke the school record twice, with his best toss being 50'2 1/4". But Leo Clark bettered Randy's toss against Centennial, with a toss of 50'5".

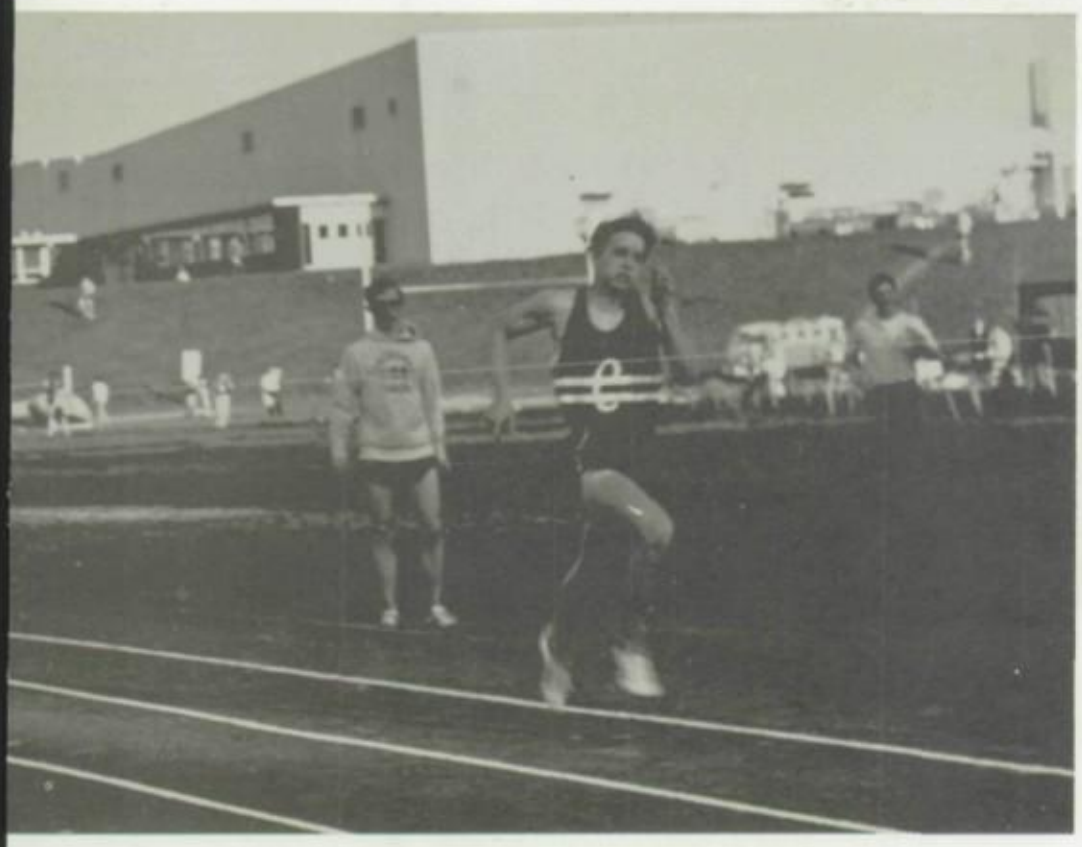
Checking their times for the score-keeper are Miss Dowling and Mr. Mayo, as anxious trackmen wait.

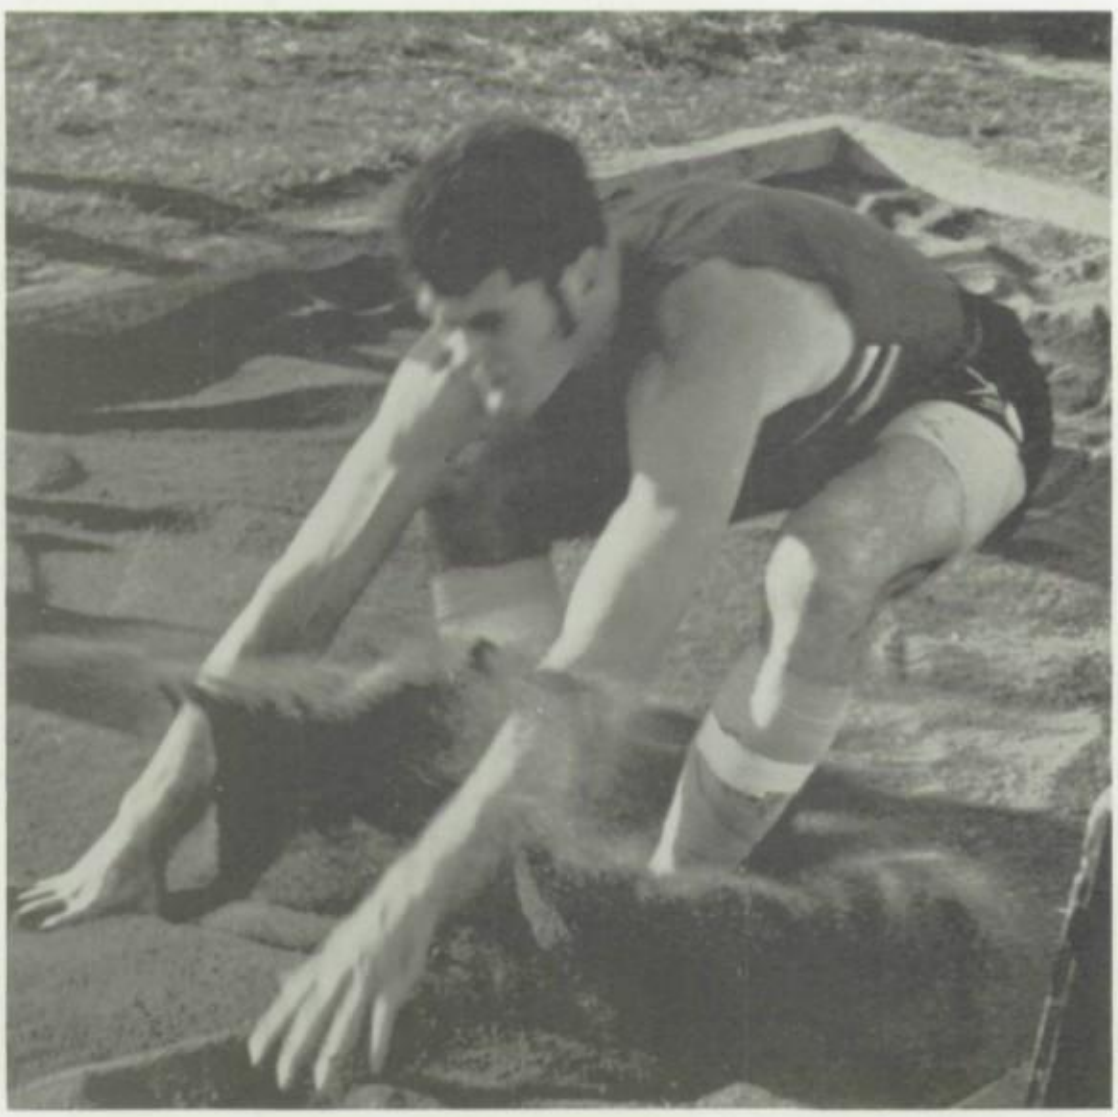
Steve Fendall leads the field in the two mile run against Gladstone. Cavalier thinclads showed their spikes to the visitors by winning 12 of 16 events for a 98- 37 victory.

Middle-distance man Walt Meininger starts for a victorious 880 run. Competing in the 440 and 880, Walt had a good day against Gresham by winning both events.

Jack Wright passes on the baton to anxious Rick Howard in the 880 relay. The perfect exchange helped account for a first place showing.



Shotput star Randy Pfenning takes his turn in the circle against Gladstone. Randy turned in consistant performances and set a new school record of 50'2 3/4".



Mike Wellock hits the sand attempting to beat his Gladstone opponents. Sharing his talents between the high-jump and the long jump, he was a mainstay of the Cavalier track team.

Showing his adaptation to the "Fosbury Flop" is Roger Robbins, the Cav's chief high jumper. A 6' 2 1/2" effort got him a first place in the Willamette Relays.

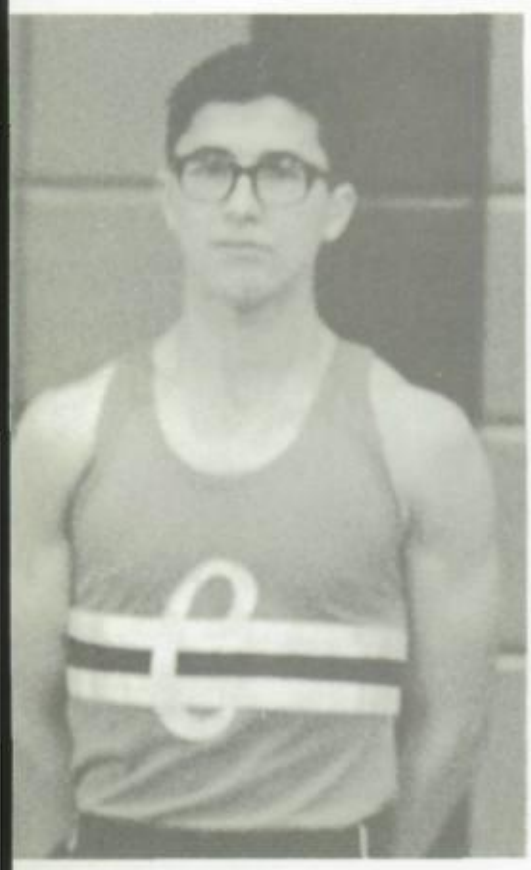
Small team gives frosh chance to compete in several events

This year's freshman team, being unable to base its strength on a great number of trackmen, had to depend on each individual competing in more than one event. A standout among the frosh this season was Brooke Jensen, who competed in many track and field events on the junior varsity level. Also Jerry Newell ran the 100 yard dash on the varsity team and early in the season was clocked at 10.3 seconds. As a majority of this season's freshman trackmen work their way up to the junior varsity and varsity levels they will be able to use their freshman season as a foundation for future accomplishments.

Against Gladstone, Brook Jensen tries to better a previous high jump effort.

Outstanding track individuals



Virgil Partridge - school pole vault record, 13' (tie).

Walt Meininger - 440, 880 yard runs.

Doug Dixon - school pole vault record, 13' (tie with Virgil Partridge).

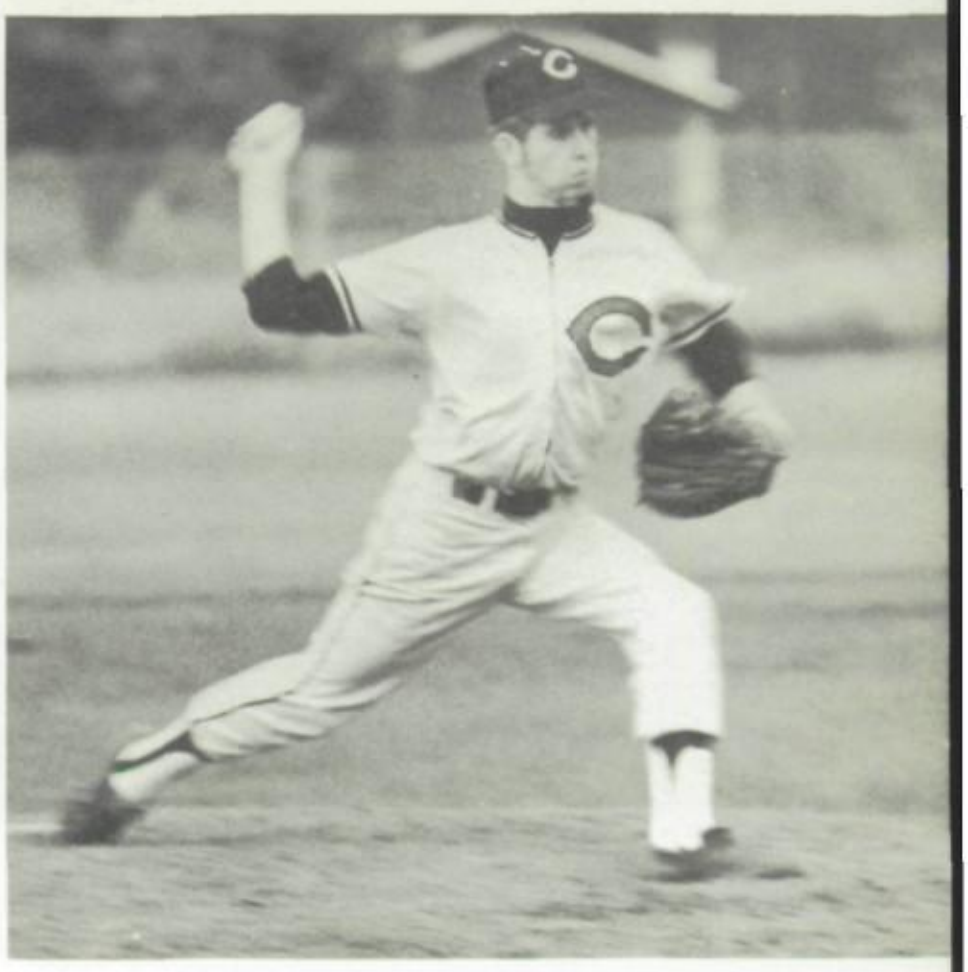
After a ball game, Coach Helbig talks to his team. Baseball is a unique sport because each player has an opportunity to display his individual skill, both at the plate and in the field.

A Cavalier player puts the tag on a Gresham Gopher, but too late. The Cavs scored first but the Gophers more often as they upset Clackamas, 8 to 2.

A small but faithful group of fans lends its support, despite the cool and damp air.



Darrel Stone makes a rare appearance on the mound against Gresham. He usually plays second base.

Varsity

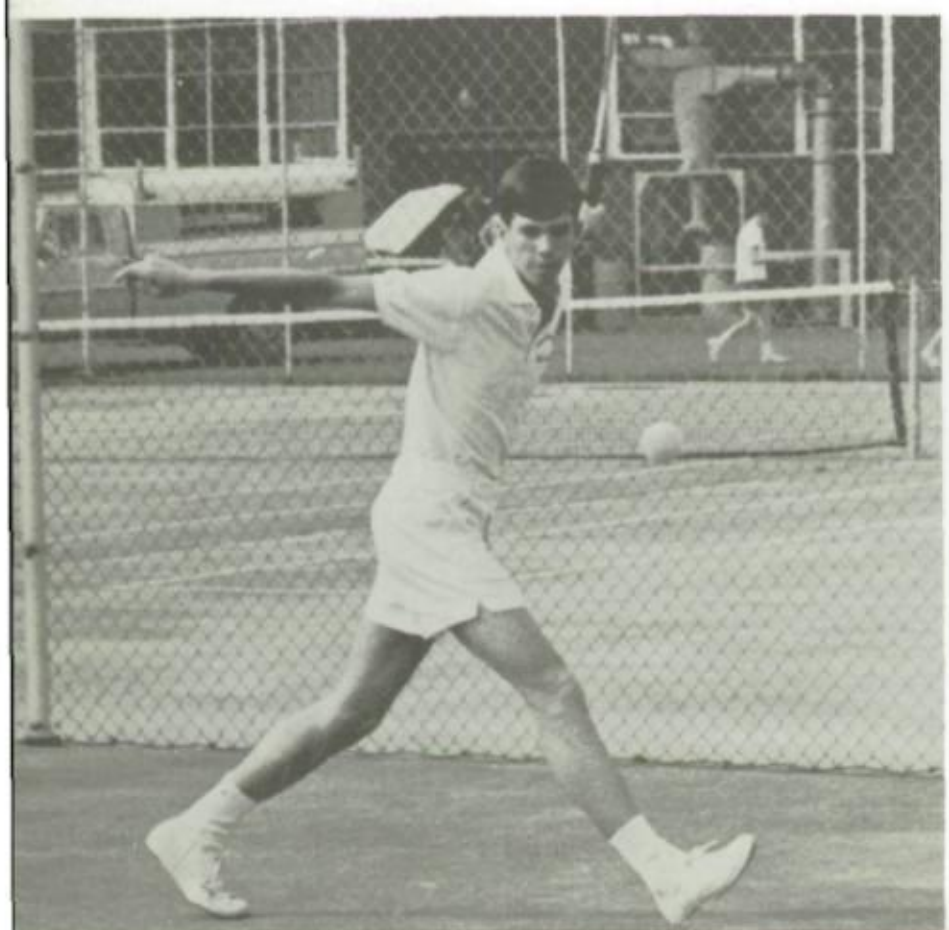
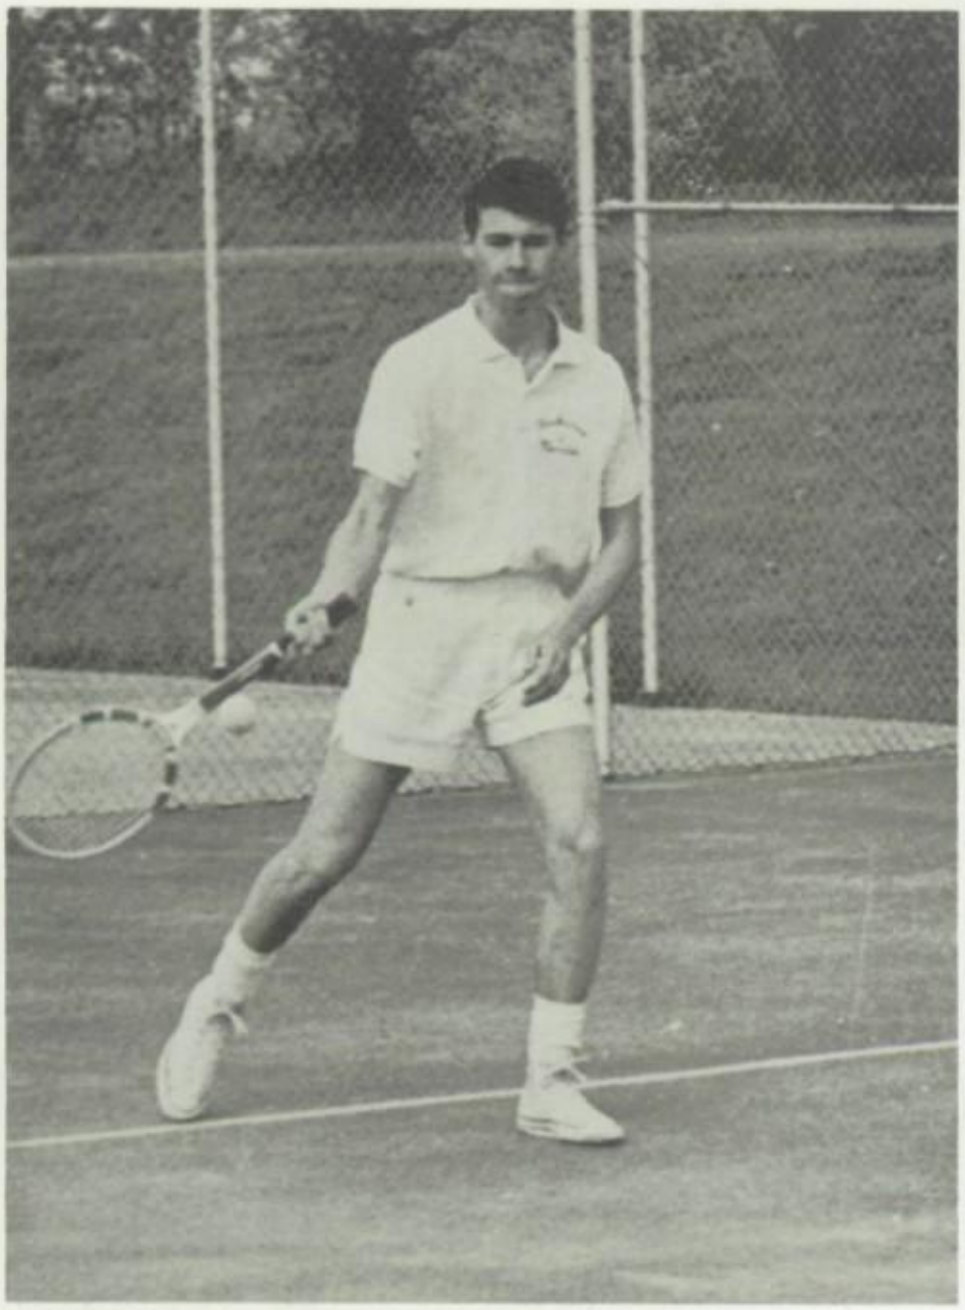
Tennis has prospered at CHS in the last few years, and this season proved no exception, with the boys' varsity team winning the first ten matches. The streak ended April 24, as a strong Sunset team upended the Cavaliers 4-1. The second doubles team of Neal Utz and Tom Bentley were the only victors.

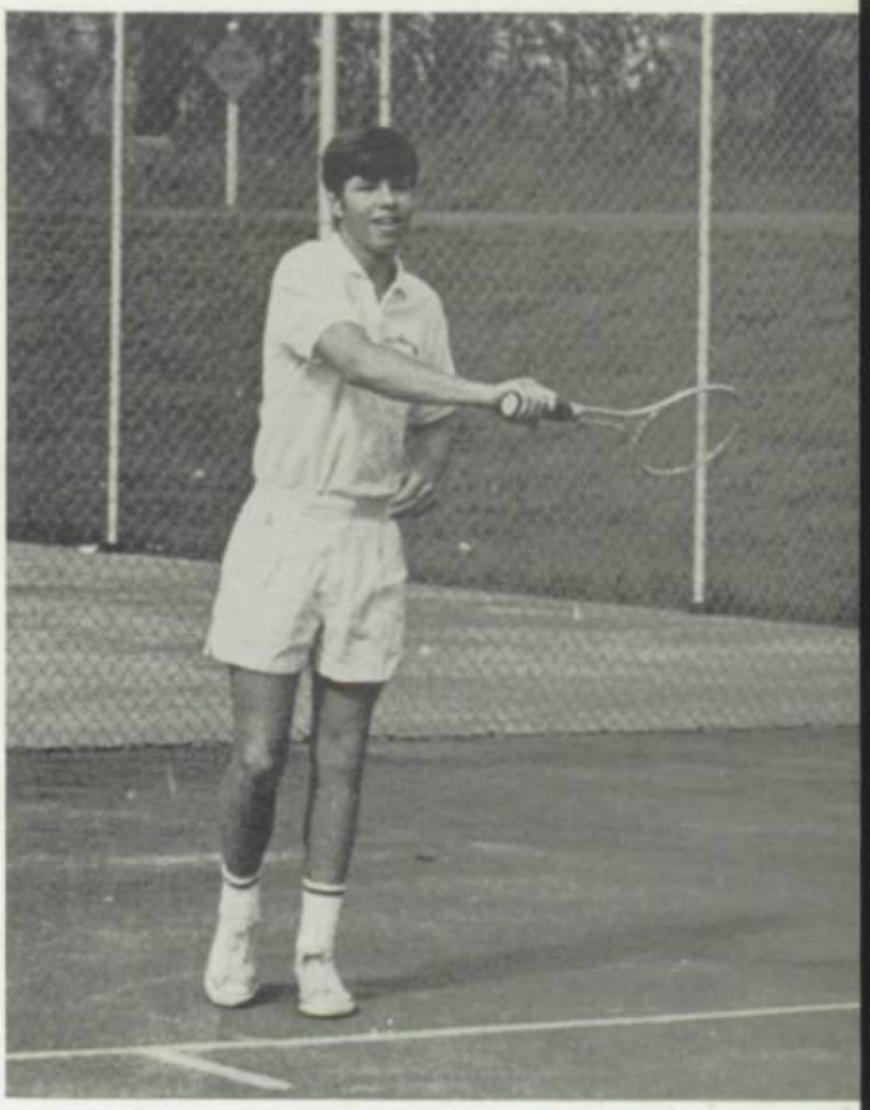
The one-two punch by juniors Jim Lindy and Dan Zorn, playing first and second singles respectively, provided team leadership. Lyn Osborne, third singles, came up with several c l u t c h victories including a must-win over Milwaukie. Dave Koenig's consistancy and John MacPherson's shot placement played key factors in their assult against opposing first doubles.

Dan Zorn - 2nd singles

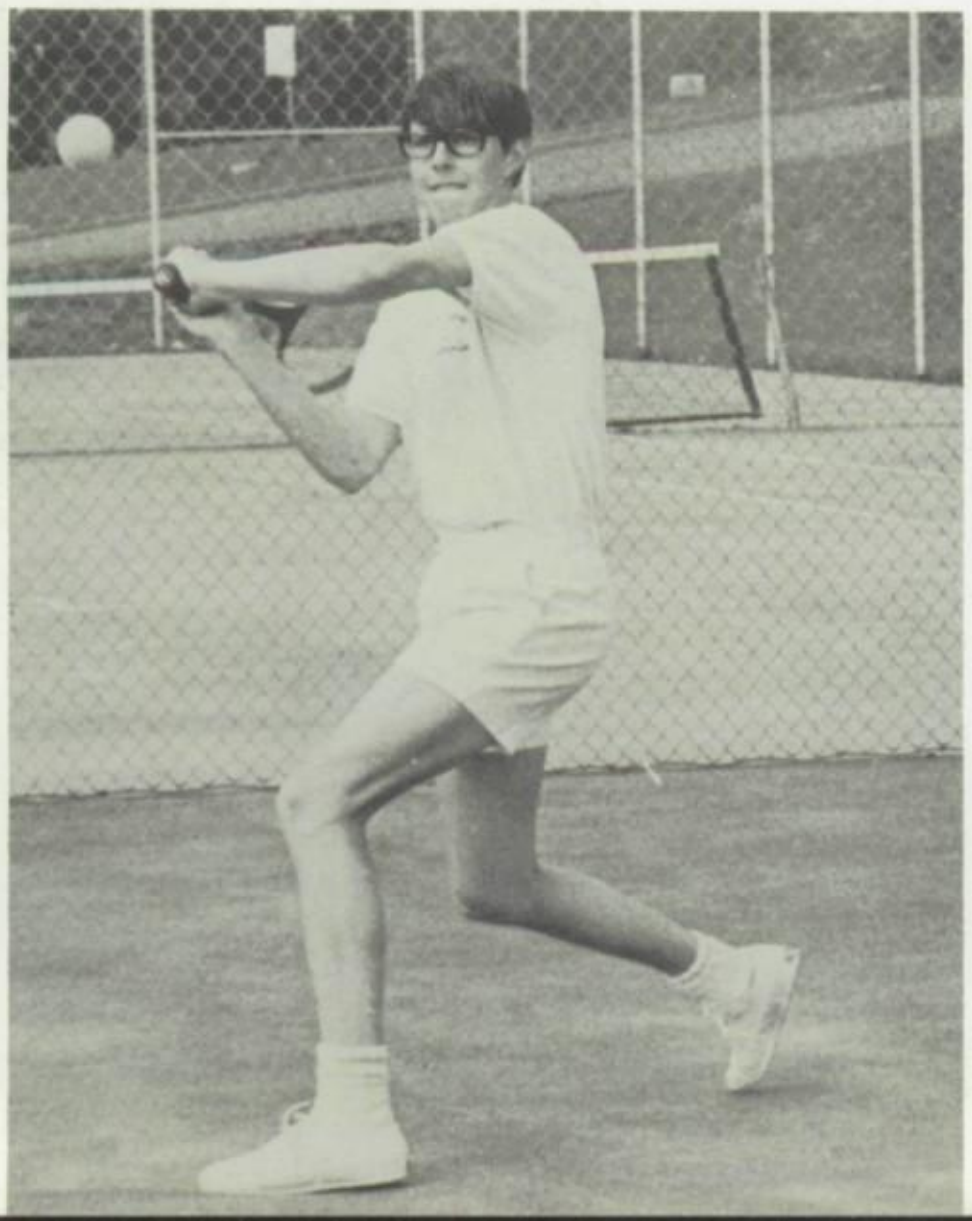
Jim Lundy - lst singles

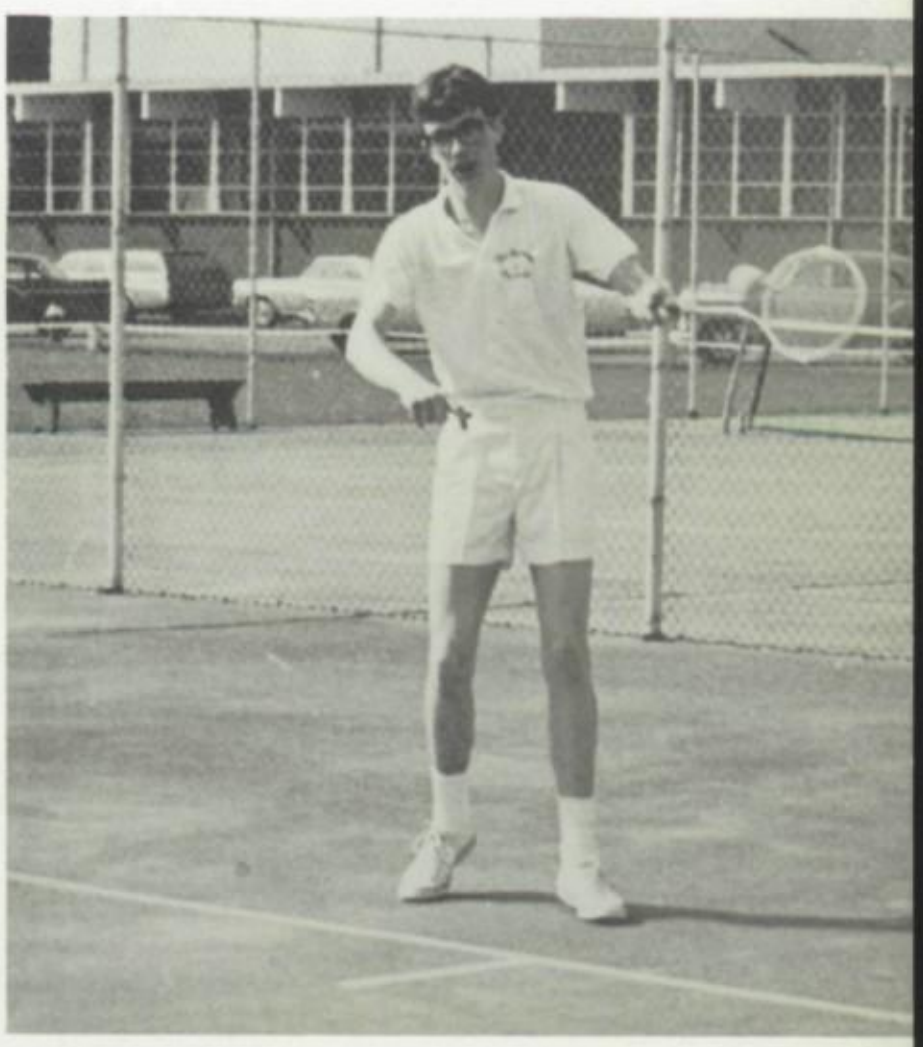






Dave Koenig and John MacPherson - 1st doubles





Neal Utz and Tom Bentley - 2nd doubles

SHIELD

ORGANIZATIONS

A time to remember ...

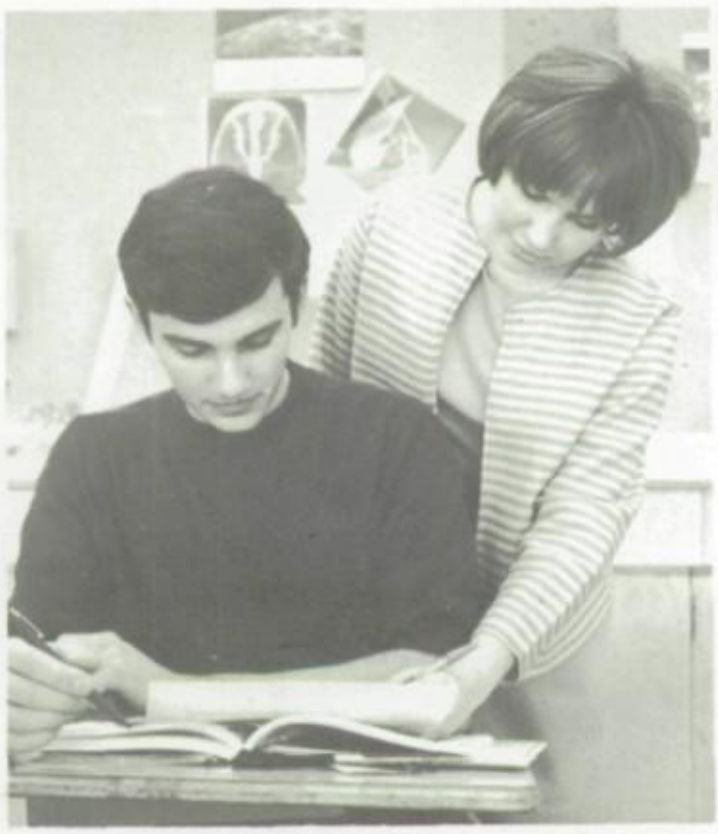
meetings, projects, and friendships.

Lance Staff

Editor-in-chief Sue Boyer helped all Lance staff members complete their sections. At the same time she was responsible for the faculty and admisistration section.

Mr. Wells, advisor to both the Lance and Shield, offers suggestions and helps encourage both staffs. He also teaches prospective publication staff members in Journalism II classes.

Gayle Robison, introduction and honors editor, and Jeanne Pettijohn, senior section editor, plan senior section layouts.



Classes editor Sue Griffith is getting a preview of Bob Tamlyn's sports section.

Lynn Grenz, fine arts and organizations editor, and activities editor Leslie Larson discuss possible picture arrangements.

The Lance staff has the responsibility of preparing the entire yearbook to a "camera-ready" condition. In other words, all pictures, copy, headlines, and art work must be arranged and pasted in place for the printers at the Skills Center. It is a long but exciting process.

All editors decide what pictures are to be taken, what size they will be, and how the pictures will be arranged. Photographs are taken either by Clackamas photography students or a professional photographer. From a contact print (print the size of the negative) the editor "crops" what is to be used and orders the picture to the dimension desired. It is printed and returned to the editor.

A time-consuming but important task is picture identification. Hopefully, the name and picture match and the name is spelled correctly. After the pictures, headlines, and copy have been pasted on the layout paper, they are proofread by the editor and the advisor. When necessary corrections have been made, the page is sent to the Skills Center.

Cover design and color are decided upon by the staff. For the last several years the S.K. Smith Company in California has made the covers. Dependable Bindery in Portland inserts, trims, and binds the pages to complete the process.

This year a new attraction was added--the use of duo-tone on divider pages. Black plus one other color are used for this effect.

Dedication and hard work are necessary in order to meet the deadlines set for a spring delivery.

Shield Staff

Margo Waldron, editor-in-chief of the Shield, assumed her position after the original editor, Julie Clarke, was transferred to Italy.

Selected by the staff, Margo switched her position as front page editor to editor in-chief. In that position her duties include coordination coverage within the paper, assuming responsibility for editorial page content, editorials, and letters to the editor. She also edits material so that it conforms to matters of fair treatment and good taste.

Denise Vogt, feature page editor, and Karen Willis, picture page editor, both strived for variation on their pages to provide more enjoyable reading.

Janet Daris, first semester typist, is helping the exchange editor, Marge Turgesen to address and mail the recent Shield.

Debbie Ham and Debbie Foreman, not directly connected with the Shield staff, worked on various publications such as the Little Red-Black Book and the Cavalier Guide. Below Debbie Hertel and Linda Folz are enjoying another paper after finishing their own pages, page six and one respectively.

Taking over page seven editorship midyear, Cris Costanzo and Chris Taylor make headlines for the next issue.

In the progress of the year, the art council traveled through Portland to several art museums. These art field trips occurred about six times this year. Although the council learns alot on these trips they still find time to enjoy themselves. After learning the basics of art, these students can put to use what they have already learned, when visiting the various establishments known for art such as the Pittock Mansion, the Portland Museum, and Maryhill.

Money to support these trips was raised by the students when they sponsored a dance, sold mistletoe, and had several bake sales.

A mobile make by an Art II student, displayed in January.

Thespians is the nucleus of various theatre programs held throughout the year at Clackamas. Members help with each play production, and they finance and produce the spring play each year.

A national, non-secret service club, Thespians is open to any student who fulfills certain point requirements. Points are accumulated in a number of ways related to theatre work: acting, lighting, box office, publicity, set construction, costume, house management.

One of the services Thespians performs for the school is the sponsoring of a $50 scholarship to two outstanding theatre students for their college education.

In an attempt to create a new image for the lettermen's club, the membership this year voted to change the name from Scarlet C to DeAkka. Primarily a service organization in the past, the club now is emphasizing social activities--making membership a privilidge activities--making membership a priviledge rather than a responsibility.

Fire Squad

The Fire Squad performs duties around school that would help the welfare of the student body in case of a real fire; however, this year the squad decided to find out how the professional fire men operate. With the help of the Milwaukie Fire Department, the CHS Fire Squad went on a field trip in the early part of April to the Portland Boat and Station No. 1. The visitation took the squad through the entire boat, including the cockpit, the engine room, on to the bow, and starboard side. The squad learned that the fire boat can pump 15, 000 gallons of water a minute. This is equivalent to about ten fire trucks.

From there the Fire Squad went downtown to Station No. 1, where again there was another tour with the highlight of this program being a lesson in pole sliding and a look at Portland's oldest fire fighting truck, once used in the T. V. program, Dodge City.

To become a member of National Honor Society, a student must have a 3. 2 grade point average; show leadership, service, and good character. Clackamas members who maintain a 3.5 grade average are allowed membership in the Honor Study Program, a play which allows the student an opportunity for individual study and independent action.

The major service project of this organization is the tutoring program, which provides assistance to those students seeking additional aid with class work.

This year the chapter sponsored basketball homecoming.

Among the many activities of FFA was the Pancake Breakfast, and the State and National Conventions, both held during March.

Four members of the Clackamas FFA Chapter were representatives at the annual State Convention in Astoria. President Dan Laxson, Secretary Art Taylor, Mike Farris, and Garry Boltjes attended the convention. The convention, usually held at OSU in Corvallis, ran for three days during spring vacation. Delegates and representatives are both chosen by their past participation in chapter activities. Representatives to the State Convention earn the chance to be chosen as representatives to the National Convention which is annually held in Kansas City in October.
